Soviet Jets Down U.S. Plane

28 Perish As Dutch Airliner Plunges Into River Shannon

Victims Include 11 Americans; 28 Survive Crash

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, Sept. 5 (AP)—The big KLM Royal Dutch airliner bound for New York with 56 persons crashed into the muddy River Shannon's broad mouth before dawn today. Twenty-seven persons, including 10 Americans, perished amid gagging gasoline fumes, rising flood tides, and slimy mud.

The toll rose to 28 with the death in a Shannon hospital tonight of an injured American survivor, Mrs. Caroline Platz of 3224 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, N. Y. She had suffered a fracture of the pelvis and other injuries.

Airline officials said most of those lost fainted from the gasoline fumes and were trapped and drowned inside the Super-Constellation. Some were feared buried alive while struggling across a mile of treacherous mud after escaping from the plane.

Twenty-nine survivors, 16 of them Americans, reached the bank after wading waist-deep for hours and praying as they crossed the mud. The survivors included 22 passengers and 7 crewmen. Three of the Dutch crew of 10, one a stewardess, perished.

Hits Water At 190 MPH

The big plane roared along at 190 miles an hour with all four engines racing and hit the water at 3:38 a.m. (9:38 p.m. Saturday, EST).

The airliner skidded across the surface and slammed against a submerged mudbank. Gasoline and water poured into the cabin. Some aboard fainted from the fumes and collapsed, while others close beside them made their escape to the airliner's rubber boats.

Eighteen hours after the crash a rescue launch landed 25 bodies taken from the plane.

It was the second crash of a KLM airliner with heavy loss of life in 13 days. A Skymaster crashed into the North Sea Aug. 23 after a stopover here on a flight from New York to Amsterdam. All 21 persons aboard that plane, including a dozen Americans, were killed.

Two Miles From Airport

Today's crash was only two miles from the airport in the Shannon estuary. The river, belying the silvery adjectives of the songs about it, is brown with mud. At low tide there is a stretch of treacherous, slimy muck often more than a mile wide separating the river bank from the water.

Gen. I. A. Aler, KLM president who hurried to the scene from Dublin, told newsmen:

"When everyone in the plane whom the crew could bring to the boats or who could get to them themselves was in the boats, the water was rising in the plane neck high. There was no sign of life. The captain decided that no one (else) could be saved, and the dinghy pulled away from the plane."

The mudbank still blocked the way to safety for those who escaped from the plane. They left the dinghies to cross the muck, but suction was so great it pulled off their shoes and stockings.

Knowland Urges Diplomatic Break With Russians

PIEDMONT, Calif., Sept. 5 (AP)—Labeling the attack on a U.S. Navy patrol plane in the Sea of Japan as another example of Soviet arrogance and aggressiveness, Senate Majority Leader Knowland today called for breaking off U.S. diplomatic relations with Russia.

In a telegram to President Eisenhower at the summer White House in Denver, Knowland declared: ". . . I strongly urge that the Soviet ambassador and his staff be sent home . . ."

The Republican leader told The Associated Press that the attack by two MIG fighter planes over the Japan sea constituted "merely the latest in a series of aggressive Communist incidents, which include the admitted supplying of arms to the Chinese aggressors in the Korean War."

Quemoy Reportedly Shelled 3rd Straight Day By Chinese Reds

U.S. And Nationalist Officers In Huddle

TAIPEH, Formosa, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Chinese Communists were reported today to have shelled—for the third successive day—Quemoy Island, where two U.S. officers were killed Friday.

There was no confirmation of the reports, which came even as top U.S. and Nationalist Chinese officers conferred on the Red attacks.

Other unverified reports said Nationalist air force planes had attacked Red-held islands and mainland points from which Quemoy had been shelled.

Amoy Reported Bombed

The English language China News reported:

"Daredevil Chinese (Nationalist) planes showered bombs and rockets all day Saturday on Communist shore batteries. Military authorities did not confirm the information, but it was learned that low-flying Thunderbolts . . . mercilessly pounded Communist gunposts ringing Quemoy. Red positions on small islands received especially heavy bombardment."

Peiping Radio Saturday said Nationalist fighter planes had bombed Amoy, near Quemoy Island on the China coast. It said one plane was shot down, another damaged.

There was no announcement of what action, if any, was decided upon at the conference of U.S. and Nationalist officers.

Red Invasion Attempt Seen

The general impression in Taipeh, where the public has shown little concern about the attacks on Quemoy, is that there is at least an even chance that the Reds actually will attempt to seize Quemoy.

Some quarters, however, think that the Communists are more interested in trying to learn whether U.S. 7th Fleet would intervene if Quemoy, or any of the other offshore Nationalist islands, is invaded.

The 7th Fleet has been assigned to guard Formosa, Nationalist headquarters, against Communist invasion. Yesterday in Washington Fred A. Seaton, assistant secretary of defense, told reporters "we are alert to our responsibilities in the area" of Quemoy. He added he was not aware of any "specific orders" to the 7th Fleet to protect any points other than Formosa.

Mrs. Ollier, a widow, worked for the French resistance movement in World War II.

Boardwalk Fire Sweeps 11 Shops At Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5 (AP) — A lightning-fast general alarm fire, clearly visible to tens of thousands of Labor Day visitors, damaged 11 shops on the famed boardwalk and the facade of Steeplechase Pier today.

The flames, fanned by stiff breezes off the Atlantic Ocean, gutted the fronts of seven shops on one side of the boardwalk, leaped across the wide wooden promenade and damaged four more on the pier.

Damage was estimated at $200,000 to the stores and $25,000 to the boardwalk. The blaze started shortly before 4 p.m., apparently under the boardwalk, and was reported extinguished within an hour after a battle by a small army of firemen from here and nearby Ocean City.

One fireman was injured by flying glass and treated at Atlantic City hospital. None of the many thousands of onlookers, who, at times hindered police and firemen in their quest for vantage points, was reported hurt.

The beach crowd alone was estimated at 200,000. The fire erupted in the heart of this resort city's jumble of shops and amusement centers on the boardwalk.

It was the second general alarm fire to hit the Atlantic City area within a week, and the second on the boardwalk in little over a months.

Total damage in the three fires was almost one million dollars.

British Labor Group Mum On China Tour

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Seven British Socialist party leaders left for Britain Sunday night fairly mum on what they saw in Red China—saving their views, they said, for a report to the annual conference of the Labor party.

POW Technicians Say Reds Tried To "Brainwash" Them

CLARK FIELD, Philippine Islands, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Five U.S. military technicians captured by Communists while taking a swim in Indochina last June stopped here last night en route home.

The five, all of whom were cheerful and looked healthy, were among American technicians who serviced U.S. planes used by the French in the battle at Dien Bien Phu. They were released by the Vietminh in central Indochina last Tuesday.

After a short stop here, the group departed for Tachikawa Air Base, Japan. The five:

Airman 2.C Ciro Salas, 23, of 1204 N. Hazard Ave., Los Angeles; Airman 3.C Giacamo Appice, 24, of 619B Arantt St., Elizabeth, N.J.; Airman 3.C Jerry Schuiler, 23, of 389 E. 1st St., Cleveland, Ohio; Pfc. Donald E. Morgan, 22, of 2106 Missouri Ave., Flint, Mich.; and Pfc. Donald E. Morgan, 22, of 2106 Missouri Ave., Flint, Mich.; and Pfc. Leonard R. Sroufek, 22 of 4748 S. Union St., Chicago.

All wore fresh khaki uniforms supplied by the French. They said they had been well treated by the Vietminh, although the Reds tried to "brainwash" them.

"They tried to feed us with propaganda," said Sroufek. "At first we tried to argue with them. When we found that was useless we just listened and let their talk pass in one ear and out the other."

Sroufek said 15 to 20 Indochinese, armed with knives and grenades, came upon them while they were swimming at a Tourane beach Jun 14. They compelled the Americans to follow them and loaded them into a truck.

"We drove inland," Sroufek continued. "We ditched the truck when we reached a bombed-out field."

They traveled inland for nine days until they reached a camp

Ike And Military Leaders Discuss Quemoy Shelling

DENVER, Sept 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Defense Department officials in Washington today on the shelling of the Chinese Nationalist held island of Quemoy from the Red China mainland.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen about the conversations and added, in response to questions, that the president's orders to the U.S. 7th Fleet to protect Formosa—the island bastion of the Nationalists—from any Red attack "have not been changed."

Hagerty also reminded newsmen that Eisenhower said at a recent news conference in Washington that any Red Chinese assault upon Formosa would have to run over the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Two U.S. Officers Killed

The press secretary again declined comment, however, when asked whether Eisenhower's statement had any application to Quemoy. The Red shelling of that island already has killed two U.S. Army officers.

Orders To Fleet Unchanged

Asked whether Eisenhower is concerned about the Red attack on Quemoy, Hagerty replied, he was not going to answer that. Then he said that "the orders to the 7th Fleet have not been changed, and I refer you to the President's press conference statement."

That was a reference to the Eisenhower assertion that any Communist attempt to invade Formosa would have to run over the 7th Fleet.

In response to another question, Hagerty also declined to tell newsmen anything about Eisenhower's reaction to the killing of the two U.S. Army officers at Quemoy.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Running Below Estimate

[By The Associated Press]

Deaths on the nation's highways Sunday were falling short of the grim forecast made by safety experts for the Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council expressed guarded optimism the traffic toll for the 78-hour holiday would be less than its estimate of 390 dead.

The first two days of the weekend passed with 164 traffic deaths reported. In addition, 18 persons drowned and miscellaneous accidents claimed 19 lives—a violent death toll of 201.

Although the traffic death count is expected to surge in the last part of the holiday as millions of motorists trek home from vacation areas, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said:

"Traffic deaths are running below our estimate. We hope they keep it up."

The experts said National Guardsmen who are keeping highway vigils in three states may be partially responsible for the lower toll.

President Eisenhower, deploring the council's estimate as a "grim forecast," appealed to motorists "to fool the experts" by driving carefully.

Michigan, which led the nation in fatal traffic accidents—with 35 over the July 4 weekend—proclaimed a state of emergency and ordered National Guard units to highway patrol duty.

In neighboring Wisconsin, Gov. Walter Kohler Jr. ordered similar measures. In Tennessee, some 300 guard volunteers bolstered state highway patrolmen. Louisiana state police airplanes dropped thousands of safety leaflets in another measure to save motorists' lives.

He said he has come to obtain firsthand information on operations of U.S. legations and embassies.

Adenauer Moves To Heal Widening Rift With France

BONN, Germany, Sept. 5 (AP) — Indomitable old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has dramatically moved in with an effort to heal the widening breach between France and West Germany and to save the American-backed European unity program.

Suddenly reversing the tough talking tactics of West German leaders since France rejected the European army scheme, Adenauer is now waving a large olive branch at the French.

He took to the radio to announce his continuing conviction that "an understanding between France and Germany is the absolutely necessary foundation of every European policy."

And he served notice that, in his view, "the great historic design of European integration" will not be killed by the adverse vote on the European army by the French National Assembly.

Still a fighter at 78, Adenauer thus made plain he has no intention of scrapping his—and America's — cherished European unity plan although many European statesmen are now writing it off as dead.

Words Directed To France

He spoke over a nationwide German radio hookup last night—but his words were directed as much to France as to his homefront audience. They showed that Adenauer, contemplating the new European crisis from his mountain top retreat in the Black Forest, has decided that holding out a friendly hand to France is wiser than the veiled threats and harsh criticism thrown out by his government during the last week.

Since the French voted down the European army plan, Adenauer's government has deliberately snubbed the Mendes-France regime by publicly proposing talks among

"Tiger Balm King" Of Orient Dies At 72

HONOLULU, Sept. 5 (AP) — Aw Boon Haw, the fabulous "Tiger Balm King" of the Orient, died today. He was 72.

Aw was returning home to Hong Kong from Boston where he recently underwent a major operation. He arrived in Honolulu Aug. 25 and, three days later, became ill and was taken to Queen's Hospital here for additional surgery. His physician said last Monday Aw's condition was satisfactory but that because of his advanced age it remained serious.

The venerable Chinese became a multimillionaire through sale of his "Tiger Balm," a popular ointment for minor aches and pains.

In 1949 the late King George VI of England promoted Aw to associate knight of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

Coffee Pinch About Over

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today the production-consumption pinch which has been blamed for sharp price increases in coffee is about over.

It said that beginning in mid-1955 there should be more coffee produced worldwide than is consumed. Just how much that will amount to will depend on the extent to which Brazil recovers from last year's frost damage and on how much more coffee drinkers will use.

The department made this forecast in its official publication "Foreign Crops and Markets" as it estimated world coffee production for the 1954-55 marketing year.

It refrained from making any predictions as to whether prices would drop as a result of this expected easing in the previously tight production situation. Recently, however, a number of major retail firms have cut coffee prices as much as 10 cents a pound.

Peiping To Withdraw Troops From Korea

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Peiping Radio said last night seven Red Chinese divisions will be withdrawn from North Korea during the next two months.

Advance announcement of the purported Red troop movement was unusual. Such redeployments usually are kept secret.

It possibly was intended as propaganda aimed at countering the imminent withdrawal of four U.S. divisions from Korea and Japan.

The aggregate strength of seven Chinese Red divisions would just about equal that of four U.S. infantry divisions.

Southeast Asia Security Talks Open At Manila

MANILA, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP)—Delegates representing 370 million people meet here today to hang a "no trespassing" sign across the doorstep of free Asia.

As the time for the eight-nation Southeast Asia Security Conference approached, only two apparent major differences faced the assembled foreign ministers or their delegated representatives.

Two Major Issues

Within the next few days Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, and the United States are expected to decide:

1. How the proposed pact against Communist aggression could best be worded to guarantee collective security for the free nations of Asia.

2. Exactly where the "no trespassing" sign would be posted.

Although there was frank disappointment in many circles because the draft of the proposed treaty did not more closely resemble the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, everyone seemed agreed that the intent of the conference—to halt communism aggression in Asia—was clearly understood and supported by all.

U.S. Opposes NATO-Type Pact

The Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan have been urging U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to support for Asia a treaty similar to NATO. But it is understood Dulles desires a simpler setup for this region.

Informed sources here feel that experience has taught Dulles that nations should be bound together under the simplest possible framework—the important matter being to establish that their intentions are mutual.

Dulles wants a short, straight-to-the point type of treaty and that is what he is going to try to persuade the other delegates to accept.

Jet Pilot Sets Speed Mark, Killed Trying To Better It

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—A few minutes after the Air Force announced today that Maj. John L. Armstrong of Dayton Friday had set a new speed record for 500 kilometers, the jet pilot was killed trying to better the feat before Sunday crowds at the National Aircraft Show.

Armstrong's F86H Sabrejet crashed near Tipp City, a few miles from Cox Municipal Airport at nearby Vandalia where the aircraft show is in progress.

The crash occurred only minutes after the Air Force had made the official announcement that Maj. Armstrong had made an average speed of 649.302 m.p.h. Friday in the 310-mile (500 kilometer) closed course dash.

Armstrong was trying to match or better that mark for the huge holiday crowd in the General Electric Trophy event—a one-man show. His speed record set Friday entitled him to the trophy, however.

No details of the crash were available immediately. The plane crashed about 2:40 p.m., EST, but it was nearly two hours later before Armstrong's death was confirmed.

Maj. Joe Lynch of the Air Force public information staff told newsmen at the National Aircraft show:

"I regret to have to inform you that Maj. John L. Armstrong of the Air Force was killed shortly before 3 p.m. this afternoon."

It was reported at the air show that wreckage of Armstrong's plane was strewn over a two mile area.

The Air Force said his widow, the former Lucille Oliver of Waverly, Ohio, had been notified of the accident. The couple had two sons and lived in Fairborn near Wright-Patterson AFB.

One Man Lost; Russia Claims 'Air Violation'

'Dastardly Act,' State Dept. Says In Protest Rejecting Red Claims

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP) — A two-engine U.S. Navy patrol plane was shot down in the Sea of Japan off Red Siberia yesterday, and today the Russian and American governments exchanged sharp protests over the incident.

One of the 10 men aboard the craft apparently was lost.

The State Department called it a "dastardly act" and rejected Moscow claims that the American plane had violated Soviet air territory. It said the U.S. plane was 44 miles from the Siberian coast—far beyond any recognized national limits of jurisdiction.

The nine other men aboard the plane, including two officers, were rescued after a ninight in the water. First reports indicated only one of these was injured.

The incident occurred at 5:18 a.m. EST Saturday.

Knowland Calls For Break

Russia, protesting against a violation of Soviet "air space," said two Russian fighters had fired on an American military plane. Moscow radio said the Soviet Union had presented a formal note of protest claiming the American plane opened fire first.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, called for breaking off U.S. diplomatic relations with Russia. In a telegram to President Eisenhower in Denver, Knowland called the attack another example of Soviet arrogane and aggressiveness.

The Defense Department, in first announcing the incident, made no direct mention of any shots being exchanged but said the American plane had been "attacked by two jet aircraft, apparently MIG15 type, and forced down." The MIG15 is a Russian-designed craft.

As reports from the rescued crewmen reached Washington however, the Navy pieced together this story:

The American plane, a P2V Neptune, was on routine patrol, cruising approximately parallel with and about 44 miles from the coast of Siberia.

Second Jet Scores Hits

The crew's first hint of trouble, Navy officials said, came in the form of tracer bullets as the first jet plane came out of the sun, and made a pass without doing any damage.

A second jet came up underneath the patrol plane, also firing, the Navy said, and scored hits on the U.S. plane's wings.

The Navy said the U.S. plane did not return the fire.

Each of the jets, after making one pass, headed in the direction of the Siberian mainland. Three or four minutes later, a fire was noticed in the patrol plane's wing and it was forced to ditch, hitting the water at a speed of about 100 miles an hour.

The nose of the plane collapsed and its tail was knocked off. Nine of the crewmen escaped in lifejackets but the navigator, Ens.

Navy Plane Falls Into Bay, Killing 7

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 5 (AP)—The body of one naval reservist had been recovered and six others were presumed dead today in the Saturday night crash of a four engine R5D transport into Chesapeake Bay.

Naval rescue workers were still on the scene this afternoon, bringing to the surface pieces of the craft which apparently nosed into the surf only minutes after taking off from the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

The three crewmen and two passengers were attached to the South Weymouth Naval Air Station in Weymouth, Mass. The two other men, both listed as passengers, were attached to the Naval Air Station at Floyd Bennett Field, N.Y.

Air and sea rescue units of the Norfolk Naval Air Station, Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base and Coast Guard units combed the choppy waters all through the night and most of today in the rescue operations. Navy divers were set down where the plane was assumed to have plunged.

One of the engines was recovered early today along with other portions of the large craft—the Navy's equivalent of the commercial DC6. A nose wheel was recovered last night. The plane arrived at the air station here Saturday afternoon and crashed just after an 8:23 p.m. EST takeoff on the return flight.

The flames, fanned by stiff breezes off the Atlantic Ocean, gutted the fronts of seven shops on one side of the boardwalk, leaped across the wide wooden promenade and damaged four more on the pier.

Damage was estimated at $200,000 to the stores and $25,000 to the boardwalk. The blaze started shortly before 4 p.m., apparently under the boardwalk, and was reported extinguished within an hour after a battle by a small army of firemen from here and nearby Ocean City.

One fireman was injured by flying glass and treated at Atlantic City hospital. None of the many thousands of onlookers, who, at times hindered police and firemen in their quest for vantage points, was reported hurt.

The beach crowd alone was estimated at 200,000. The fire erupted in the heart of this resort city's jumble of shops and amusement centers on the boardwalk.

It was the second general alarm fire to hit the Atlantic City area within a week, and the second on the boardwalk in little over a months.

Total damage in the three fires was almost one million dollars.

British Labor Group Mum On China Tour

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Seven British Socialist party leaders left for Britain Sunday night fairly mum on what they saw in Red China—saving their views, they said, for a report to the annual conference of the Labor party.

POW Technicians Say Reds Tried To "Brainwash" Them

CLARK FIELD, Philippine Islands, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Five U.S. military technicians captured by Communists while taking a swim in Indochina last June stopped here last night en route home.

The five, all of whom were cheerful and looked healthy, were among American technicians who serviced U.S. planes used by the French in the battle at Dien Bien Phu. They were released by the Vietminh in central Indochina last Tuesday.

After a short stop here, the group departed for Tachikawa Air Base, Japan. The five:

Airman 2.C Ciro Salas, 23, of 1204 N. Hazard Ave., Los Angeles; Airman 3.C Giacamo Appice, 24, of 619B Arantt St., Elizabeth, N.J.; Airman 3.C Jerry Schuiler, 23, of 389 E. 1st St., Cleveland, Ohio; Pfc. Donald E. Morgan, 22, of 2106 Missouri Ave., Flint, Mich.; and Pfc. Donald E. Morgan, 22, of 2106 Missouri Ave., Flint, Mich.; and Pfc. Leonard R. Sroufek, 22 of 4748 S. Union St., Chicago.

All wore fresh khaki uniforms supplied by the French. They said they had been well treated by the Vietminh, although the Reds tried to "brainwash" them.

"They tried to feed us with propaganda," said Sroufek. "At first we tried to argue with them. When we found that was useless we just listened and let their talk pass in one ear and out the other."

Sroufek said 15 to 20 Indochinese, armed with knives and grenades, came upon them while they wer swimming at a Tourane beach Jun 14. They compelled the Americans to follow them and loaded them into a truck.

They traveled inland for nine days until they reached a camp

Ike And Military Leaders Discuss Quemoy Shelling

DENVER, Sept 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Defense Department officials in Washington today on the shelling of the Chinese Nationalist held island of Quemoy from the Red China mainland.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen about the conversations and added, in response to questions, that the president's orders to the U.S. 7th Fleet to protect Formosa—the island bastion of the Nationalists—from any Red attack "have not been changed."

Hagerty also reminded newsmen that Eisenhower said at a recent news conference in Washington that any Red Chinese assault upon Formosa would have to run over the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Two U.S. Officers Killed

The press secretary again declined comment, however, when asked whether Eisenhower's statement had any application to Quemoy. The Red shelling of that island already has killed two U.S. Army officers.

Orders To Fleet Unchanged

Asked whether Eisenhower is concerned about the Red attack on Quemoy, Hagerty replied, he was not going to answer that. Then he said that "the orders to the 7th Fleet have not been changed, and I refer you to the President's press conference statement."

That was a reference to the Eisenhower assertion that any Communist attempt to invade Formosa would have to run over the 7th Fleet.

In response to another question, Hagerty also declined to tell newsmen anything about Eisenhower's reaction to the killing of the two U.S. Army officers at Quemoy.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Running Below Estimate

[By The Associated Press]

Deaths on the nation's highways Sunday were falling short of the grim forecast made by safety experts for the Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council expressed guarded optimism the traffic toll for the 78-hour holiday would be less than its estimate of 390 dead.

The first two days of the weekend passed with 164 traffic deaths reported. In addition, 18 persons drowned and miscellaneous accidents claimed 19 lives—a violent death toll of 201.

Although the traffic death count is expected to surge in the last part of the holiday as millions of motorists trek home from vacation areas, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said:

"Traffic deaths are running below our estimate. We hope they keep it up."

The experts said National Guardsmen who are keeping highway vigils in three states may be partially responsible for the lower toll.

President Eisenhower, deploring the council's estimate as a "grim forecast," appealed to motorists "to fool the experts" by driving carefully.

Michigan, which led the nation in fatal traffic accidents—with 35 over the July 4 weekend—proclaimed a state of emergency and ordered National Guard units to highway patrol duty.

In neighboring Wisconsin, Gov. Walter Kohler Jr. ordered similar measures. In Tennessee, some 300 guard volunteers bolstered state highway patrolmen. Louisiana state police airplanes dropped thousands of safety leaflets in another measure to save motorists' lives.

Ellender In New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 5 (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La), member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, arrived here today and said he planned to visit Afghanistan, Nepal and Kashmir.

He said he has come to obtain firsthand information on operations of U.S. legations and embassies.

"King Of All Nations Of Men"

Bishop Homer A. Tomlinson, general overseer of the Church of God, proclaims himself "King of All the Nations of Men" at the church's 49th annual general assembly at Greeneville, Tenn. Miss Nelle Rogers, daughter of Bishop J. L. Rogers, has just placed the crown on the bishop's head.

Adenauer Moves To Heal Widening Rift With France

BONN, Germany, Sept. 5 (AP) — Indomitable old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has dramatically moved in with an effort to heal the widening breach between France and West Germany and to save the American-backed European unity program.

Suddenly reversing the tough talking tactics of West German leaders since France rejected the European army scheme, Adenauer is now waving a large olive branch at the French.

He took to the radio to announce his continuing conviction that "an understanding between France and Germany is the absolutely necessary foundation of every European policy."

And he served notice that, in his view, "the great historic design of European integration" will not be killed by the adverse vote on the European army by the French National Assembly.

Still a fighter at 78, Adenauer thus made plain he has no intention of scrapping his—and America's — cherished European unity plan although many European statesmen are now writing it off as dead.

Words Directed To France

He spoke over a nationwide German radio hookup last night—but his words were directed as much to France as to his homefront audience. They showed that Adenauer, contemplating the new European crisis from his mountain top retreat in the Black Forest, has decided that holding out a friendly hand to France is wiser than the veiled threats and harsh criticism thrown out by his government during the last week.

Since the French voted down the European army plan, Adenauer's government has deliberately snubbed the Mendes-France regime by publicly proposing talks among

"Tiger Balm King" Of Orient Dies At 72

HONOLULU, Sept. 5 (AP) — Aw Boon Haw, the fabulous "Tiger Balm King" of the Orient, died today. He was 72.

Aw was returning home to Hong Kong from Boston where he recently underwent a major operation. He arrived in Honolulu Aug. 25 and, three days later, became ill and was taken to Queen's Hospital here for additional surgery. His physician said last Monday Aw's condition was satisfactory but that because of his advanced age it remained serious.

The venerable Chinese became a multimillionaire through sale of his "Tiger Balm," a popular ointment for minor aches and pains.

In 1949 the late King George VI of England promoted Aw to associate knight of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem.

Coffee Pinch About Over

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today the production-consumption pinch which has been blamed for sharp price increases in coffee is about over.

It said that beginning in mid-1955 there should be more coffee produced worldwide than is consumed. Just how much that will amount to will depend on the extent to which Brazil recovers from last year's frost damage and on how much more coffee drinkers will use.

The department made this forecast in its official publication "Foreign Crops and Markets" as it estimated world coffee production for the 1954-55 marketing year.

It refrained from making any predictions as to whether prices would drop as a result of this expected easing in the previously tight production situation. Recently, however, a number of major retail firms have cut coffee prices as much as 10 cents a pound.

Peiping To Withdraw Troops From Korea

TOKYO, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP) — Peiping Radio said last night seven Red Chinese divisions will be withdrawn from North Korea during the next two months.

Advance announcement of the purported Red troop movement was unusual. Such redeployments usually are kept secret.

It possibly was intended as propaganda aimed at countering the imminent withdrawal of four U.S. divisions from Korea and Japan.

The aggregate strength of seven Chinese Red divisions would just about equal that of four U.S. infantry divisions.

Daring Sailors

ROSSLARE, Ireland, Sept. 5 (AP)—Two young Irishmen headed into the Irish sea today in a 33-foot sailing yacht named Squell determined to sail around the world.

The skipper is 27-year-old William Stokes and his "crew" is Jim Duncan, 26.

Southeast Asia Security Talks Open At Manila

MANILA, Monday, Sept. 6 (AP)—Delegates representing 370 million people meet here today to hang a "no trespassing" sign across the doorstep of free Asia.

As the time for the eight-nation Southeast Asia Security Conference approached, only two apparent major differences faced the assembled foreign ministers or their delegated representatives.

Two Major Issues

Within the next few days Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan, the Philippines, and the United States are expected to decide:

1. How the proposed pact against Communist aggression could best be worded to guarantee collective security for the free nations of Asia.

2. Exactly where the "no trespassing" sign would be posted.

Although there was frank disappointment in many circles because the draft of the proposed treaty did not more closely resemble the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, everyone seemed agreed that the intent of the conference—to halt communism aggression in Asia—was clearly understood and supported by all.

U.S. Opposes NATO-Type Pact

The Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan have been urging U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to support for Asia a treaty similar to NATO. But it is understood Dulles desires a simpler setup for this region.

Informed sources here feel that experience has taught Dulles that nations should be bound together under the simplest possible framework—the important matter being to establish that their intentions are mutual.

Dulles wants a short, straight-to-the point type of treaty and that is what he is going to try to persuade the other delegates to accept.

Jet Pilot Sets Speed Mark, Killed Trying To Better It

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 5 (AP)—A few minutes after the Air Force announced today that Maj. John L. Armstrong of Dayton Friday had set a new speed record for 500 kilometers, the jet pilot was killed trying to better the feat before Sunday crowds at the National Aircraft Show.

Armstrong's F86H Sabrejet crashed near Tipp City, a few miles from Cox Municipal Airport at nearby Vandalia where the aircraft show is in progress.

The crash occurred only minutes after the Air Force had made the official announcement that Maj. Armstrong had made an average speed of 649.302 m.p.h. Friday in the 310-mile (500 kilometer) closed course dash.

Armstrong was trying to match or better that mark for the huge holiday crowd in the General Electric Trophy event—a one-man show. His speed record set Friday entitled him to the trophy, however.

No details of the crash were available immediately. The plane crashed about 2:40 p.m., EST, but it was nearly two hours later before Armstrong's death was confirmed.

Maj. Joe Lynch of the Air Force public information staff told newsmen at the National Aircraft show:

"I regret to have to inform you that Maj. John L. Armstrong of the Air Force was killed shortly before 3 p.m. this afternoon."

It was reported at the air show that wreckage of Armstrong's plane was strewn over a two mile area.

The Air Force said his widow, the former Lucille Oliver of Waverly, Ohio, had been notified of the accident. The couple had two sons and lived in Fairborn near Wright-Patterson AFB.

Navy Plane Falls Into Bay, Killing 7

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 5 (AP)—The body of one naval reservist had been recovered and six others were presumed dead today in the Saturday night crash of a four engine R5D transport into Chesapeake Bay.

Naval rescue workers were still on the scene this afternoon, bringing to the surface pieces of the craft which apparently nosed into the surf only minutes after taking off from the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

The three crewmen and two passengers were attached to the South Weymouth Naval Air Station in Weymouth, Mass. The two other men, both listed as passengers, were attached to the Naval Air Station at Floyd Bennett Field, N.Y.

Air and sea rescue units of the Norfolk Naval Air Station, Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base and Coast Guard units combed the choppy waters all through the night and most of today in the rescue operations. Navy divers were set down where the plane was assumed to have plunged.

One of the engines was recovered early today along with other portions of the large craft—the Navy's equivalent of the commercial DC6. A nose wheel was recovered last night. The plane arrived at the air station here Saturday afternoon and crashed just after an 8:23 p.m. EST takeoff on the return flight.

Kefauver Says GOP Encourages Attempt To "Break Up TVA"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) accused the Eisenhower administration today of encouraging what he called private utility attempts to "break up the TVA" through the proposed Dixon-Yates contract.

Kefauver said in a Labor Day statement he believes, "It is a time for the average working man and woman of the United States to take a good, critical look at what has been going on in the government."

He said that "nothing so highlights the new trend" under the Republicans as a contract President Eisenhower has ordered signed for the construction of a steam power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority system to replace power sold by TVA to the Atomic Energy Commission in Kentucky.

Kefauver, who was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952 and who has been mentioned as a possibility for 1956, said this contract would give private utilities "a plum worth between 92 and 140 million to them." He said it would aid them in seeking "to break up the TVA system."

"When such things are done," he said, "it's time for a change so far as the average man and woman—who doesn't own a utility company—is concerned."

He said that "a lot of us in the Senate and House are still kicking" about the proposed contract, despite the fact that Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) said yesterday that a new cost-sharing arrangement between TVA and AEC would minimize his objections to the plan.

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, has contended that the proposed contract involves a "raw deal" and a giveaway to a private power syndicate.

Prominent Jeweler Dies At Elkton, Md.

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 5 (AP)—John Henry Minster, 59-year-old prominent Elkton jeweler and civic leader, died at Union Hospital here today after suffering a heart attack.

Minster, who had headed the J. J. Minster and Son Jewelry Co. here since 1915, was at work yesterday and sat up watching television until midnight last night when he was stricken. He was taken to the hospital and died about four hours later.

where about 200 French prisoners were held.

"We were separated from them," Salas said. "We slept in bamboo huts and were fed two meals a day of rice and some fish and a little chicken. Sometimes we had hot water and tea.

"We lived at a private home for a month, then were moved south to another barracks where we were held two weeks."

Most of the time, the men said, they did their own cooking. They spent the rest of their time playing games, talking about all manner of things, including "home, hamburgers, and hot dogs."

Salas related that they had a trial one day.

"Morgan said Ho Chi Minh (the Vietminh chief) was no good," he said. "They tried Morgan. We said that was not the democratic way. They got all shook up."

Morgan gave this account of his "trial":

"I was put in a black box—an empty warehouse full of rats. I stayed there two nights and was released the third day. I was fed pretty well."

Adenauer Moves

Britain, the United States, West Germany and the Benelux Nations on how to add Germany's strength to Western defense. France was not mentioned.

The Bonn regime also has trumpeted loudly for "full, undiminished" sovereignty now and announced that it would accept nothing less than full equality in defense with other Western Nations. Adenauer, in an earlier interview, charged that Premier Mendes - France wanted to destroy the European army project.

No such blunt talk appeared in the chancellor's radio address.

Role Of Conciliator

He emerged in the role of a conciliator, of the stubborn advocate of a new approach to European unity, of the great proponent of French - German friendship.

Instead of the club, he shrewdly held out—not one—but three carrots to those Frenchmen who fear West German rearmament. He said West German would voluntarily limit her armed forces even after obtaining sovereignty. He said it is necessary that a future united Germany remain firmly bound with the free world. He said his government has no intention of trying to isolate France.

What is behind this sudden about-face by the stern old German leader?

Time is running out on the distinguished career of Adenauer, who is just four months short of his 79th birthday. He is now fighting the crictical, and perhaps the last, battle to save his European unity program. Facing an important state election in Schleswig-Holstein next Sunday in which foreign policy is the dominant issue, he is stubbornly refusing to admit that French rejection of the European army may have killed hopes for a future united Europe. Adenauer clearly has decided he can salvage his foreign policy only through cooperation with France.

He Did Too Well With Explaining

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5 (AP) — We all have to learn sometime.

Indiana University journalism students are publishing the official state fair newspaper. But Chris Savage, the faculty advisor, patiently cautioning a "city slicker" reporter against asking about "eewees" in the sheep barn, did too well with his explaining.

The reporter, learning about the death of a ewe from heat, wrote that "A u died . . ."

An editor later was forcibly restrained from noting the event in print with the comment: "No ewes is good ewes."

Most Of Nation Enjoys Good Holiday Weather

[By The Associated Press]

Most of the nation had good holiday weather Sunday. It was quite hot in the Midwest and South, though, and cloudy in an extensive area over the Upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region.

The cloudiness marked a spread of cooler air southward from Canada. Its leading edge brought showers in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

The temperature pattern reported by the Weather Bureau had most of the northern tier of states enjoying moderate mercury readings in the 70-degree range.

West of the Rockies, temperatures in the 80s were the rule, with cooler areas near the Pacific Coast, and the Southwest desert region expected to make up maximums of 105 to 110 degrees.

Index Of Prices Paid To Maryland Farmers Drops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 5 (AP)—Lower prices for fruits, livestock and some vegetable crops brought about a decline in the index of prices received by Maryland farms during August.

The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said yesterday the index dropped to the lowest August levels since 1950.

It explained that the drop in fruit, livesock and vegetable prices more than offset gains in grain and poultry prices.

The price level stood at 270 index points on Aug. 15, six points lower than one month earlier and nine points below mid-August of 1953.

While the index of prices they were paid declined, the nation-wide index of prices paid by farmers for the things they need rose two points—from 280 to 282—between July 15 and Aug. 15.

Beef cattle, sheep, lambs and hogs all showed lower prices on Aug. 15 than on July 15, with hog prices droping $1.30 per hundred weight.

Wheat and rye prices increased sharply while corn and barley prices climbed slightly. Oats and soybeans were down.

The average price for broiler chickens declined slightly, but farm chickens went up a cent a pound. Egg prices went up as they usually do in August. Milk showed a seasonal decline.

Canada Wants Voice In German Rearming

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Canada has served notice on Britain and the United States that it wants a voice in consideration and decisions on plans for rearming West Germany.

Canadian Minister George P. de T. Glazebrook told State Department leaders in a call Friday that his country supports an American call for a North Atlantic Alliance meeting on the problem instead of a British proposal for an eight power conference of primarily European nations.

The Canadian position had previously been disclosed in London where it was reported late last week that High Commissioner Norman A. Robertson had protested against the British proposal because Canada would not be included.

The coffee berry was sold in New York as early as 1863.

Most oysters are canned in Louisiana.

No such blunt talk appeared in the chancellor's radio address.

Role Of Conciliator

He emerged in the role of a conciliator, of the stubborn advocate of a new approach to European unity, of the great proponent of French - German friendship.

Instead of the club, he shrewdly held out—not one—but three carrots to those Frenchmen who fear West German rearmament. He said West German would voluntarily limit her armed forces even after obtaining sovereignty. He said it is necessary that a future united Germany remain firmly bound with the free world. He said his government has no intention of trying to isolate France.

What is behind this sudden about-face by the stern old German leader?

Time is running out on the distinguished career of Adenauer, who is just four months short of his 79th birthday. He is now fighting the critical, and perhaps the last, battle to save his European unity program. Facing an important state election in Schleswig-Holstein next Sunday in which foreign policy is the dominant issue, he is stubbornly refusing to admit that French rejection of the European army may have killed hopes for a future united Europe. Adenauer clearly has decided he can salvage his foreign policy only through cooperation with France.

He Did Too Well With Explaining

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5 (AP) — We all have to learn sometime.

Indiana University journalism students are publishing the official state fair newspaper. But Chris Savage, the faculty advisor, patiently cautioning a "city slicker" reporter against asking about "eewees" in the sheep barn, did too well with his explaining.

The reporter, learning about the death of a ewe from heat, wrote that "A u died . . ."

An editor later was forcibly restrained from noting the event in print with the comment: "No ewes is good ewes."

Most Of Nation Enjoys Good Holiday Weather

[By The Associated Press]

Most of the nation had good holiday weather Sunday. It was quite hot in the Midwest and South, though, and cloudy in an extensive area over the Upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region.

The cloudiness marked a spread of cooler air southward from Canada. Its leading edge brought showers in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

The temperature pattern reported by the Weather Bureau had most of the northern tier of states enjoying moderate mercury readings in the 70-degree range.

West of the Rockies, temperatures in the 80s were the rule, with cooler areas near the Pacific Coast, and the Southwest desert region expected to make up maximums of 105 to 110 degrees.

Index Of Prices Paid To Maryland Farmers Drops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 5 (AP)—Lower prices for fruits, livestock and some vegetable crops brought about a decline in the index of prices received by Maryland farms during August.

The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said yesterday the index dropped to the lowest August levels since 1950.

It explained that the drop in fruit, livesock and vegetable prices more than offset gains in grain and poultry prices.

The price level stood at 270 index points on Aug. 15, six points lower than one month earlier and nine points below mid-August of 1953.

While the index of prices they were paid declined, the nation-wide index of prices paid by farmers for the things they need rose two points—from 280 to 282—between July 15 and Aug. 15.

Beef cattle, sheep, lambs and hogs all showed lower prices on Aug. 15 than on July 15, with hog prices droping $1.30 per hundred weight.

Wheat and rye prices increased sharply while corn and barley prices climbed slightly. Oats and soybeans were down.

The average price for broiler chickens declined slightly, but farm chickens went up a cent a pound. Egg prices went up as they usually do in August. Milk showed a seasonal decline.

Canada Wants Voice In German Rearming

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Canada has served notice on Britain and the United States that it wants a voice in consideration and decisions on plans for rearming West Germany.

Canadian Minister George P. de T. Glazebrook told State Department leaders in a call Friday that his country supports an American call for a North Atlantic Alliance meeting on the problem instead of a British proposal for an eight power conference of primarily European nations.

The Canadian position had previously been disclosed in London where it was reported late last week that High Commissioner Norman A. Robertson had protested against the British proposal because Canada would not be included.

The coffee berry was sold in New York as early as 1863.

Foot care is important to a graceful walk . . . just as important is a correct step.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The woman who appears to be walking on air is one who walks lightly and gracefully. She does not clomp . . . she glides. She wears shoes that are comfortable and attractive. She never has a complaint about aching feet because she grooms her feet for the work they do.

Want to be that very woman? Start your next grooming session wtih feet first. A sudsy bath is a tonic that doesn't have to wait until feet feel like lead from overwalking.

Soak your feet in warm soapsuds for a few minutes; then go over any callused spots with a soapy pumice stone. If you never tub, always shower, the soles of your feet probably need extra care. Scrub the soles pink with a nail brush, and buff the underneath calluses with extra determination. Rinse, dry well, then sit or lie down with your feet placed higher than your head.

Correct Step

While you're still barefooted after your brief rest, stand with feet nearly together and pointed straight ahead. Examine your balance. Do the inner borders of your feet tend to flop inward and almost touch the floor? If so, there's no cause for great alarm. Structurally, flat feet are rare. Far more common is the foot with an arch that tends to flatten out as you put your weight on it. If your feet behave this way, you need to strengthen your foot muscles and correct your step.

Here is a good foot strengthening exercise: Sit on the floor, back straight, head high, and legs stretched apart. Brace yourself with hands on the floor behind your hips. Point your heels until you can feel the stretch up the back of your legs. Now push down with the ball of each foot, arching the feet sharply and spreading the toes wide. Hold each position as you count slowly to three, and repeat 15 times.

Balance Test

Most important factor in correcting your step is the transference of your weight. Don't permit the inner border of your foot to lean toward the ground. Instead, force your weight through the center of your foot from heel to toe. If you find this difficult, exaggerate the motion by actually placing your weight on the outside edge of your foot a few times. Do it slowly; see an arch develop, and feel how springy it is.

Shoes that are too tight or heels that are too high will spoil any woman's walk. The unbroken continuity of rhythmic rolling motion is what gives smoothness to your walk. It takes practice, but even practice won't bring perfection if your shoes are uncomfortable, or exaggerated in height.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5 (INS) — By the time this is in print an announcement will come out of New York, or from Paramount Studio here in Hollywood, that Bing Crosby's next co-star is Jeanmaire.

The ballet dancer, who has not been in Hollywood since she made "Hans Christian Andersen," is being sought for "Anything Goes," which is Bing's big picture for January.

Stop me if this has been printed, but I didn't even know that Bing was pencilled in for this famous Broadway musical.

I located Sue and Alan Ladd just as they were in a discussion at Warner Brothers. Sue said that Alan has bought the rights to "The Darkest Hour," William McGiven's hard hitting story.

Sid Boehm is changing the story so it won't be too much like another picture Alan made.

Said Sue, "We are also trying to negotiate a deal with Warners. Something like the one John Wayne and Bob Fellows have, whereby Alan will form his own company and occasionally use other stars."

But Alan won't pass the McGiven story on to anyone else.

When Marilyn Monroe lands in New York on Wednesday, on hand to meet her will be Roy Craft who handles all Marilyn's publicity for Harry Brand. Roy leaves Monday. He is very close to the No. 1 glamor girl and swears by her. He said Marilyn was so tired when she finished "No Business Like Show Business" that her doctor ordered her to take a rest away from everyone before she starts "Seven Year Itch."

Before Marilyn left for a destination not even her studio or agent knew, she did wardrobe tests for "Seven Year Itch" and a reading for Director Willie Wyler — this in addition to her work on "No Business Like Show Business."

Jack Webb, who was all but mobbed at the premiere of "The Egyptian," has made a deal with Harry James to write a trumpet solo for his picture, "Pete Kelley's Blues." Jack plays a trumpet player in a honky-tonk Greenwich Village spot, and he'll have to simulate playing the trumpet. Why not get Harry to play for him?

Jack has been invited by Warner Brothers to get another picture into production by November because of the way "Dragnet" is cleaning up. As he would say, "These are the facts, ma'm."

I have been pretty rough with Terry Moore in the past, accusing her of going all out for publicity. So now I want to compliment her.

Not a word lately about Terry standing on her head in the middle of the street; wearing an ermine bathing suit, or getting almost killed in a freak accident. Terry, who is a very good actress (I've always said that) has been playing stock in the East. She opens next at the Massachusetts Somerset Playhouse and she's taking her acting very seriously. More power to her!

Mrs. Mario Lanza has had more than her share of troubles. But she is relieved that the finger graft performed on her daughter, Coleen, has been pronounced successful.

In fact, the plastic surgeons believe the little girl is so young that the flesh may grow back to normal proportions over a period of years.

The little girl severed part of her finger when she caught her hand in a heavy door jamb.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Joanne Gilbert and Robert Francis, youthful hero of "Caine Mutiny,' were together at Jack's at the Beach. Whatever happened to Danny Arnold whose engagement ring pretty Joanne wore?

Gloria De Haven says she's in love, but that his name isn't Jeff Chandler. However, for reasons best known to the lady, she's keeping his name secret.

"The Texas Story" has been registered by Howard Hughes with the Producers Association, and Howard plans a big epic based on his native state.

Jennings Lang and Nora Haymes revived an old romance at the Luau and, believe me, he was Nora's steady for a long time.

Wonderful to see Bess Meredyth at the premiere of "The Egyptian." She was with her director husband, Michael Curtiz, her son and daughter-in-law, Joan and Jack Lucas, Gordon Maynard, Pam Gallagher and Margaret Ettinger.

George Tapps — and I deny I'm his press agent—now at the Cocoanut Grove with his group, received an award from the Dance Educators of America as the best dancer of the year.

While all the rest of the town was at "The Egyptian" premiere party at Romanoff's, the Dean Martins were celebrating their fifth wedding anniversary at Ciro's. They were married five years ago at Herman Hover's house.

Niven Busch's choice for the actress to play the lead in his story "Blood on the Horn" opposite Gilbert Roland, is his ex-wife, Teresa Wright. Well, he doesn't deserve any credit for that — she's a fine little actress.

Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski will come to Hollywood if she makes a deal with Ken Murray for her TV debut in his show "Where Were You."

That's all today. See you Monday!

Preston County Plans 13th Annual Buckwheat Festival

KINGWOOD—The nation's number one breakfast will hold the spotlight early next month when Kingwood, Preston County, W. Va., parades its hospitality for the thirteenth staging of the Buckwheat Festival.

Thousands of visitors are expected to help consume heaping stacks of buckwheat cakes and pure Preston County maple syrup when the annual three-day festival is held under the direction of the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department beginning September 30 and ending October 2.

Center of the celebration's activities will again be the Kingwood Community Building, the huge concrete and cinder block building valued at $100,000 and built six years ago almost entirely by volunteer labor.

And once more, the Festival is being divided into three parts with separate sponsorship in order to present a variety of entertainment and competition features. The first day will be Firemen's Day, the second School Day and the third Farmer's Day.

Highlights of the Firemen's Day activities will be the elaborate parade, featuring an array of professional floats and staged during the evening of September 30. Firemen from departments throughout the State will be present for this day's celebration and will be guests at a lavish buckwheat dinner at noon.

State Fire Marshall C. A. Raper of Charleston has accepted the invitation to crown Michael McGinnis of Newburg as King Firemen at the half-time period of the Buckwheat Bowl football game between Kingwood and Tunnelton High Schools.

The Festival's big day will be held under the direction of local school authorities on October 1. Music for the activities will be furnished by a large combined band made up of musicians from a number of guest high school bands. Featured during this second day's celebration will be the crowning of Miss Twyla Benson of Bruceton as Queen Ceres XIII.

United States Treasurer Ivy B. Priest of Washington, D. C., has accepted the invitation to crown Queen Ceres XIII. This will mark the second time in the history of the festival that a woman has been chosen as the coronation official.

The first was Mrs. J. M. Myers of Philippi, who had been named as "West Virginia State Mother" and she crowned Patty Jo Auman of Terra Alta Queen Ceres VII.

Farmer's Day, which closes the annual celebration, also is expected to furnish a full day's entertainment for the Festival Guests. A larger and more elaborate horse show will be conducted, with many attractive prizes to be awarded to winners. Also scheduled are livestock exhibits, poultry show, demonstrations and contests.

King Buckwheat will also be crowned on Farmer's Day. Crowning will be done by Jay Bonafield executive head of Radio-Keith-Orpheum-Pathe Inc., of New York City, and a native of Tunnelton, Preston County.

King Buckwheat will not be named until the first day of the program after all buckwheat exhibits have been judged. The King will be named on the basis of the quality of his exhibition of Buckwheat.

And of course, there will be plenty of heaping stacks of the famed Preston County buckwheat cakes for the guests who travel State Routes 7 and 26 to this North-Central West Virginia community to participate in the yearly observance.

And just to prove that all of the Preston County maple syrup has not been shipped to Vermont to be blended and resold, Festival officials report that more than 400 gallons of pure county maple syrup have been purchased for consumption at this year's celebration.

Buckwheat meals will again be served in the mammoth community building, which has been enlarged to provide more eating and kitchen space for the overflow crowds.

Council Will Ask Bids On Sewage Treatment Plant

An order calling for the advertisement of bids for the city's sewage treatment plant has been drawn up and will be presented to the Mayor and Council tomorrow at 10 a. m. for action.

The Mayor and Council decided to go ahead with the project two weeks ago when it was assured that the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company was going to build its $34,000,000 plant at North Branch.

The sewage treatment plant, designed by Robert Regester, Baltimore engineer, will be constructed on the "Island" off Offutt Street formed by the old C&O Canal and the Potomac River. The site is on city-owned land.

Following the regular meeting, Mayor Roy W. Eves said, the council will meet in executive session with Guy M. Davis, president of the Cumberland Transit Lines.

Several meetings ago, on July 19, Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz registered a complaint about bus service in Cumberland, terming it "ridiculous" and suggested a conference between the Mayor and Council and Davis.

Buchholtz remarked that he had received several "gripes" about the service from persons who said they had been forced to wait from 15 to 20 minutes for a bus.

The commissioner said he was not hostile to the bus company, but commented that he believed the city had an obligation to see that the buses operated on schedule.

County Dairy Judging Team Finishes Second

The junior dairy judging team from Allegany County won second place at the State Fair in Timonium Saturday.

The event was won by Montgomery County with Baltimore County coming in third. The Allegany County team was coached by James Weamert, assistant county farm agent here.

Charles Lethbridge of Ashton in Montgomery County won the tractor driving contest. He will represent Maryland in the regional finals at Richmond, Va., on September 28.

Preston County Plans 13th Annual Buckwheat Festival

KINGWOOD—The nation's number one breakfast will hold the spotlight early next month when Kingwood, Preston County, W. Va., parades its hospitality for the thirteenth staging of the Buckwheat Festival.

Thousands of visitors are expected to help consume heaping stacks of buckwheat cakes and pure Preston County maple syrup when the annual three-day festival is held under the direction of the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department beginning September 30 and ending October 2.

Center of the celebration's activities will again be the Kingwood Community Building, the huge concrete and cinder block building valued at $100,000 and built six years ago almost entirely by volunteer labor.

And once more, the Festival is being divided into three parts with separate sponsorship in order to present a variety of entertainment and competition features. The first day will be Firemen's Day, the second School Day and the third Farmer's Day.

Highlights of the Firemen's Day activities will be the elaborate parade, featuring an array of professional floats and staged during the evening of September 30. Firemen from departments throughout the State will be present for this day's celebration and will be guests at a lavish buckwheat dinner at noon.

State Fire Marshall C. A. Raper of Charleston has accepted the invitation to crown Michael McGinnis of Newburg as King Firemen at the half-time period of the Buckwheat Bowl football game between Kingwood and Tunnelton High Schools.

The Festival's big day will be held under the direction of local school authorities on October 1. Music for the activities will be furnished by a large combined band made up of musicians from a number of guest high school bands. Featured during this second day's celebration will be the crowning of Miss Twyla Benson of Bruceton as Queen Ceres XIII.

United States Treasurer Ivy B. Priest of Washington, D. C., has accepted the invitation to crown Queen Ceres XIII. This will mark the second time in the history of the festival that a woman has been chosen as the coronation official. The first was Mrs. J. M. Myers of Philippi, who had been named as "West Virginia State Mother" and she crowned Patty Jo Auman of Terra Alta Queen Ceres VII.

Farmer's Day, which closes the annual celebration, also is expected to furnish a full day's entertainment for the Festival Guests. A larger and more elaborate horse show will be conducted, with many attractive prizes to be awarded to winners. Also scheduled are livestock exhibits, poultry show, demonstrations and contests.

King Buckwheat will also be crowned on Farmer's Day. Crowning will be done by Jay Bonafield, executive head of Radio-Keith-Orpheum-Pathe Inc., of New York City, and a native of Tunnelton, Preston County.

King Buckwheat will not be named until the first day of the program after all buckwheat exhibits have been judged. The King will be named on the basis of the quality of his exhibition of Buckwheat.

And of course, there will be plenty of heaping stacks of the famed Preston County buckwheat cakes for the guests who travel State Routes 7 and 26 to this North-Central West Virginia community to participate in the yearly observance.

And just to prove that all of the Preston County maple syrup has not been shipped to Vermont to be blended and resold, Festival officials report that more than 400 gallons of pure county maple syrup have been purchased for consumption at this year's celebration.

Buckwheat meals will again be served in the mammoth community building, which has been enlarged to provide more eating and kitchen space for the overflow crowds.

Council Will Ask Bids On Sewage Treatment Plant

An order calling for the advertisement of bids for the city's sewage treatment plant has been drawn up and will be presented to the Mayor and Council tomorrow at 10 a. m. for action.

The Mayor and Council decided to go ahead with the project two weeks ago when it was assured that the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company was going to build its $34,000,000 plant at North Branch.

The sewage treatment plant, designed by Robert Regester, Baltimore engineer, will be constructed on the "Island" off Offutt Street formed by the old C&O Canal and the Potomac River. The site is on city-owned land.

Following the regular meeting, Mayor Roy W. Eves said, the council will meet in executive session with Guy M. Davis, president of the Cumberland Transit Lines.

Several meetings ago, on July 19, Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz registered a complaint about bus service in Cumberland, terming it "ridiculous" and suggested a conference between the Mayor and Council and Davis.

Buchholtz remarked that he had received several "gripes" about the service from persons who said they had been forced to wait from 15 to 20 minutes for a bus.

The commissioner said he was not hostile to the bus company, but commented that he believed the city had an obligation to see that the buses operated on schedule.

County Dairy Judging Team Finishes Second

The junior dairy judging team from Allegany County won second place at the State Fair in Timonium Saturday.

The event was won by Montgomery County with Baltimore County coming in third. The Allegany County team was coached by James Weamert, assistant county farm agent here.

Charles Lethbridge of Ashton in Montgomery County won the tractor driving contest. He will represent Maryland in the regional finals at Richmond, Va., on September 28.

Wellersburg Reorganizes Parent-Teacher Association

Officers Elected, Plans Made For Program

WELLERSBURG — The Wellersburg Parent-Teacher Association was reorganized for the new school term at a meeting last Thursday night in the school house.

Mrs. Catherine Wells was reelected president; Mrs. Louise Murray was elected vice president; Mrs. Juno Moore was elected secretary and Mrs. Velda Dom, treasurer.

Committee chairmen appointed include, Mrs. Moore, membership; Mrs. Betty Ringler, program planning.

During the meeting, Mrs. Moore spoke on membership; Mrs. Betty Ringler outlined program planning. Mrs. Murray discussed the duties of the officers and Mrs. Wells talked on policy, principals and objectives.

Two visitors included Earl Witt and Robert Murray. Besides those already named, Mrs. Evelyn Witt and Mrs. Wilhelmina Neubiser were present.

Mrs. Wells said a sincere effort is to be made this year to broaden the membership of the Wellersburg PTA to include every parent, teacher and interested citizen in the community.

Plans are already underway and funds allocated for the construction of a new and modern school building in the community, and an active Parent Teacher group is desirable, so these plans can be expedited and every community assistance assured for the greatest cooperation to complete the project as early as possible.

In the meantime, the PTA hopes, Mrs. Wells said, to lend its efforts toward procurement of permanent playground equipment, and to encourage a community-wide interest in the general welfare of the children.

She said "the only recreation in Wellersburg for children or adults, is what we might be able to provide for ourselves through the use of school and church facilities and through encouragement of such active and interested groups as a united and cooperating Parent Teacher Association."

Officers Elected, Plans Made For Program

WELLERSBURG — The Wellersburg Parent-Teacher Association was reorganized for the new school term at a meeting last Thursday night in the school house.

Mrs. Catherine Wells was reelected president; Mrs. Louise Murray was elected vice president; Mrs. Juno Moore was elected secretary and Mrs. Velda Dom, treasurer.

Committee chairmen appointed include, Mrs. Moore, membership; Mrs. Betty Ringler, program planning.

During the meeting, Mrs. Moore spoke on membership; Mrs. Betty Ringler outlined program planning. Mrs. Murray discussed the duties of the officers and Mrs. Wells talked on policy, principals and objectives.

Two visitors included Earl Witt and Robert Murray. Besides those already named, Mrs. Evelyn Witt and Mrs. Wilhelmina Neubiser were present.

Mrs. Wells said a sincere effort is to be made this year to broaden the membership of the Wellersburg PTA to include every parent, teacher and interested citizen in the community.

Plans are already underway and funds allocated for the construction of a new and modern school building in the community, and an active Parent Teacher group is desirable, so these plans can be expedited and every community assistance assured for the greatest cooperation to complete the project as early as possible.

In the meantime, the PTA hopes, Mrs. Wells said, to lend its efforts toward procurement of permanent playground equipment, and to encourage a community-wide interest in the general welfare of the children.

She said "the only recreation in Wellersburg for children or adults, is what we might be able to provide for ourselves through the use of school and church facilities and through encouragement of such active and interested groups as a united and cooperating Parent Teacher Association."

Success Story From Brazil

The life of Joao Cafe Filho, now president of Brazil, throws considerable light on the strange political scene that was projected so dramatically on the world screen a few days ago. During most of his career he has been against the government — and for his temerity he has languished successively in jail, in exile from his native land, in a hospital bed.

His troubles began early. Born in Natal in the state of Rio Grande do Norte in 1899, he was a crusading newspaper editor in his native town at the age of 19. This newspaper soon closed down and Cafe started another that made him a reputation as a fighter. In the next decade he started three more papers in other towns and in each case he made himself so unpopular with the authorities that he was forced to shut up shop and go elsewhere.

In 1926 he ran for the federal Chamber of Deputies and claimed the election, but the other man got the seat. Two years later he served 70 days in jail for criticizing the government. The next year, finding that the climate in the Brazilian northeast had become so uncongenial that he could stand it no longer, he took a post on a newspaper in Rio de Janeiro.

In 1930 he was back again, though, and soon he had resurrected one of his old papers and was championing the cause of the Liberal Alliance, formed by Getulio Vargas, his predecessor as president, and Joao Pessoa. When the revolution came, in October, he was in command of an armed group.

The revolution succeeded and he became chief of police in his native city, Natal. He fell into disfavor, and was arrested for plotting against the government, but in 1932 was chief of police again and was badly wounded by would-be assassins.

He was elected a federal deputy in 1934 and served until President Vargas dissolved Congress and became dictator. He disagreed with Vargas and was forced into exile in Argentina.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Hollywood Communists

For two years, Hollywood was surprisingly clear of Communists. After motion pictures were boycotted and theaters picketed by patriotic organizations to prevent American money from filling the treasury of the Communist party, a program was set up which gave the dupe or innocent or even the Communist who had changed his mind an opportunity to clear himself. About 300 persons connected with the industry took advantage of this opportunity to set themselves straight. Surprisingly few of these persons have backslid. It was a good record of work done to help an industry in distress and it must be said that the principal companies cooperated in the program.

One of the by-products of Senator Joe McCarthy's troubles is that Communists and their friends are crawling back into their old jobs and they are raising their heads high. They feared the impact of congressional investigations; now they express themselves in victorious overtones.

One of the sure signs of a defender of the Communists is the use of the word, "super-patriot." Obviously there can be no such concept as a "super-patriot." Either a man is patriotic or he is not. In Hollywood today, anyone who objects to a Communist working and contributing a part of his wages to the treasury of an outlawed party is called a "super-patriot." This is the current party line.

A controversy has arisen over a picture, "Salt of the Earth," which was made by a number of Fifth Amendment Communists and was produced by a union which is Communist-dominated. Many theaters will not show this picture and some newspapers will not accept advertisements for it. "Variety," which is an important and influential newspaper in Hollywood, did publish such an advertisement on the grounds that it must not inquire into the political or religious affiliations of its advertisers.

This raises an interesting question of journalistic propriety, to which Joe Schoenfeld, editor of the Hollywood edition of "Variety," referring to a letter written by Brooks Atkinson, drama critic for The New York Times, said:

"The contents of Atkinson's letter have particular significance to show business where, too quickly of late, people have been condemned to unemployment and economic ruin because of 'lists' circulated among film companies and advertising agencies by super patriots and hate-mongers. It's no longer a question of a person being a known Communist, or one of questionable status due to his refusal to testify before a congressional committee; the situation has degenerated to the point that some people are listed as 'unemployable' because of gossip or poison pen letters, or because some super patriot doesn't like their 'attitude.' By 'attitude' is usually meant their feelings toward super patriots and pressure groups."

Schoenfeld, of course, gives no names, for had he listed cases and instances, it would have been possible to answer him by reference to the record. More Hollywood people were helped by the program than Schoenfeld knows.

Further, Schoenfeld wrote:

"It's ironic, in fact, that one of the most powerful super patriots in Hollywood now is a self-confessed ex-Communist writer, who has been acting as judge and jury of people under a cloud. If a 'hearing' satisfies this ex-Red the person under suspicion gets a clearance through channels — up and down the line of the nationally known super patriots. The 'clearance' finally filters down to potential employers."

There is no person who possesses such powers. It is true that several companies have protected themselves aaginst boycotts and picketing by making detailed inquiries concerning actors, writers, etc., but no person has ever cleared another in a program of three years duration. I know every detail of this program.

What does Brooks Atkinson say in his piece which Schoenfeld regards as "must" reading? Atkinson says:

"In many respects . . . both the administrative and legislative branches of the government show a compulsion toward totalitarian attitudes and practices:

"The government refuses passports to citizens it does not like.

"It blocks the free exchange of ideas by denying visas to eminent European scientists and writers who have been invited by American citizens to attend professional conferences here.

"It has repudiated the scientist who led the world in the construction of the atom bomb because he is not a standardized man.

"It maintains an organization of investigators who collect, among other items, facts concerning the newspaper reading habits of citizens and the mail that goes into their homes.

"It employes political informers . . ."

There is more of the same.

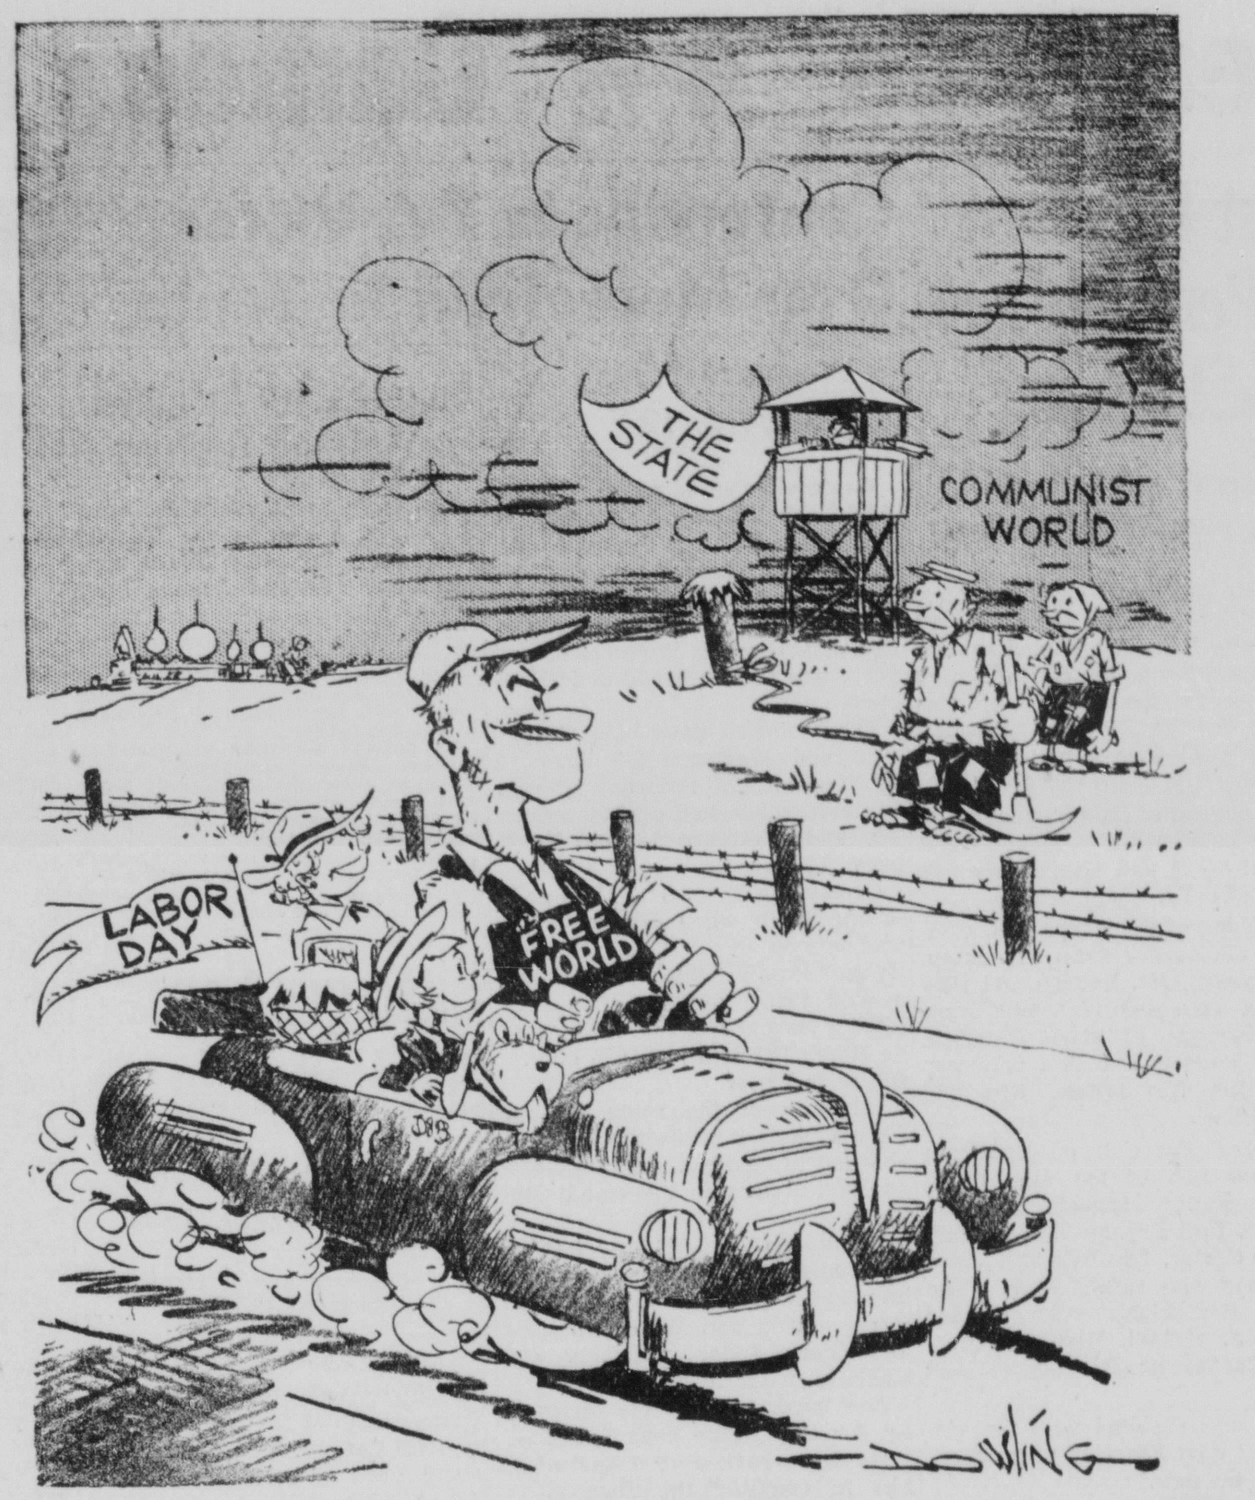
How Do You Like Your Boss?



Desire To Be Of Service To Country Makes Ohio's Bolton Run For Office

By Stewart Alsop

MENTOR, OHIO

Representative Oliver Bolton, Republican, of the 11th District of Ohio, a handsome man in his mid-thirties, with a quick smile and jet black hair, is running scared. Indeed, to judge from a typical early campaign Sunday spent with Bolton, he is running downright terrified.

Bolton's Sunday makes an interesting commentary on the art of politics as it is now practiced in these United States.

The day started, of course, with church. After that, the first "non-political" stop in this day of rest was the Eastlake vs. Willoughby baseball game, which Bolton was to umpire. Bolton, accompanied by his secretary, Erwin Maus, and this reporter, arrived late for the game, from long experience. But not late enough. The Eastlake Flames—a female team clad in startling vermillion — were still monopolizing the field.

It was some time before the ladies reluctantly gave way. After umpiring a couple of innings, with assurance and considerable dash, Bolton was already late for his next engagement. He never did catch up.

The next stop was an outdoor picnic of the Veterans of Foreign Wars near the little town of Brimfield some 40 miles to the south. On the way Bolton stopped his car at a gas station to ask directions. There were several people about, but no one recognized him.

Critic Mollified

"If I'd been a real pro," Bolton said ruefully as he got into the car, "I'd have held my hand out all around and said, "I'm Ollie Bolton, your congressman.' But I still can't get over the feeling that they'll say, 'so what?' "

The VFW picnic went off well. A tall angry mail-carrier attacked Bolton on the President's veto of the spot pay raise, but Bolton mollified him, and they parted friends. A big veteran insisted on carrying Bolton piggy-back to the car, and he left amid much good-natured laughter, and cries of "Look what you have to go through to be a congressman."

The point was well taken. By this time, it was well on in the afternoon, and the next date—a picnic of the Democratic Romanian-American club—was many miles away. The picnic turned out to be a genial affair, with much jigging to the strains of cornet and flute. It was here that Bolton's opponent, Edward C. Kaley, a heavy man with a long nose and a big cigar, unexpectedly appeared. After the jigging ended, both candidates were called on to speak.

Kaley lumbered to the platform, and made a speech of record brevity. "All I have to say," he said, "'is my Romanian-American friends are working people, and they'll vote like working people. That's all I have to say." He sat down abruptly. The applause was light.

Bolton followed. He too spoke briefly, something about how good it was to come to a meeting like this, "which could only happen in America, where we can get together, all of us of different views and political faiths, and talk about the Cleveland Indians or even more serious problems as friends together." The Romanian-American Democrats applauded their Republican congressman enthusiastically. "My ain't he good-looking," one pretty Romanian-American lady murmured.

In the car, he got a different reception. By this time, Republican county chairman Jean Blair, a witty, white-haired man, had joined the party. "Why didn't you just get up there and wrap yourself in the American flag and let it go at that?" Blair asked. Bolton admitted that maybe he was a bit corny, and everybody laughted.

Grey With Fatigue

After this, the strain began to tell. There was another picnic, for the Knights of Columbus, who were so hospitable that Bolton was too late for the picnic of the Afro-American Methodist Church. Well after midnight, after having driven close to 200 miles in Sunday traffic, and after making contact with a tiny fraction of one per cent of the voters in his district, Rep. Bolton was home again. His face was grey with fatigue.

Why does he do it? Bolton's family is rich, a political liability he is striving hard to overcome. As a lawyer, Bolton could easily lead a pleasant, private life, assured of reaching the top of his profession, with no need to take piggy-back rides or shake a thousand hands a day. What makes Ollie run?

"This may sound kind of pompous," Bolton replied with some embarrassment when asked this question, "but I really get a bang out of feeling that I'm of some service to the country—or anyway to my disrict. And besides, ever since I was a kid I've wanted to be in the middle of things."

Prehaps another part of the answer is to be found in Bolton's little speech to Romanian-Americans, corny or not, it really is good to see America as Bolton sees it at campaign-time — a big, friendly, kindly, unfrighened country. At any rate, the country is lucky to have its Boltons — earnest, intelligent, public-spirited men who are also insane enough to go into politics.

American Labor's Unity Better Now Than In 19 Years

By George Meany

WASHINGTON—Labor Day, 1954, finds the American trade union movement more closely united than at any time in the last 19 years.

One of the main reasons for this constructive development is the highly successful operation thus far of the no-raiding agreement between the AFL and the CIO. After three months, not a single case has been referred to the impartial umpire. The unions in both camps participating in the agreement have been quietly getting together and settling their organization differences without much fuss. We've still got our fingers crossed, but if the new era of good feeling keeps growing at the present rate, actual labor unity in America may be closer than most observers anticipate.

There are many significant reasons for this, aside from the no-raiding pact. Outside pressures—economic, political and international—have served to weld the once hostile divisions of American labor into virtual alliance on all major issues.

All of labor is deeply disturbed by the slippage in our national economy. Adjusting the official figures to the realities, there are now about 5,000,000 unemployed in the nation. This means considerable unnecessary suffering to the families on the lower rungs of the economic ladder, whom labor must protect. It means a tremendous deficit in purchasing power. It means, in the long run, reduced income for business and farmers, unless the retreat is promptly halted.

Gumming Up Works

Labor has pleaded in vain with Congress and the administration for corrective action. We find that big business is running the works in Washington—and doing a poor job. The views of labor are given little, if any, consideration.

This conclusion is amply confirmed by the record of the 83rd Congress. Labor challenges President Eisenhower's praise of that record.

We can find no satisfaction in giveaways of the nation's oil and atomic resources to private exploitation.

Our people will derive no nourishment from the crumbs they get under the new tax-revision law which grants huge benefits to corporations and wealthy stock investors.

The complete failure to fulfill campaign pledges to remove the "union-busting" provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act is aggravated even further by new administrative ruling of the Eisenhower-appointed majority on the National Labor Relations Board which make the law more oppressive to labor.

It is of great concern to us that Congress did nothing to improve the standards of unemployment compensation, that it failed to raise the minimum wage, that it completely neglected the urgent need for federal aid to education, that it dodged the responsibility of enacting fair employment practice legislation and that it passed an inadequate housing law. Only in the new improvements to the Social Security Act did Congress earn a passing grade.

Limited Horizons

All liberals are perturbed by the backward trend in governmental policy, by the complacent acceptance of "second best" conditions, by the shrinkage in our horizons for future progress.

Finally, we are shocked by the collapse of the effectiveness of American foreign policy. The AFL and the CIO are jointly engaged with the free labor movements of other lands in the fight against communism. Through the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions we have helped to prevent the Kremlin from gaining further conquest by subversion of workers anywhere in the free world.

Today we find that our allies in the free world have lost confidence in the firmness of American leadership in international affairs. They are even succumbing to the fatal illusion of "peaceful coexistence" with communism. When European labor leaders make missions to Moscow and Peiping and shake hands with dictators who have imprisoned more than 40,000,000 workers in slave-labor camps, we know the cause of free labor has lost ground.

Occasionally, people ask us what advantage would be gained by a merger between the AFL and CIO. The answer is simple. Labor is strong only when it is united. In my opinion, unification of the labor movement will revive and fortify the liberal forces in America.

Baering Down On The News

All the 83rd Congress wants is to be the 84th.

The job is tougher than midnight for Cinderella. But the hours are heavily upholstered and the take-home pay gets there.

That's why the incumbents are taking up the slack in their options. When a workingman is worthy of his hire he doesn't want it lower.

When a man dedicates his life to his country, he wants a nice rate of insurance.

He hopes to die in harness. With his head toward the wagon.

Thomas Jefferson knew that like the taste of his teeth when he wrote, "Few die and none resign."

The old philosopher was as correct as a business machine. They all had tuxedos. But none of them would travel.

Realize that Jefferson wrote that when the republic still had some of the shell on its back.

The 83rd was a good Congress as Congresses go. But it forgot that legislatures bat with a broom.

There is no certainty that the 84th will return with a Republican edge. An election is a tickle between the shoulderblades that strangers must scratch for you.

This contest for control is going to be so close every senator will have to part his hair exactly in the middle.

The popular shibboleth is "It's time for a change." Even guys who don't wear sox yell that.

Everybody's Gold Mine

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—A prominent educational institution was recently presented a life-sized sculpture of my head for its library. This gift came from a group of admirers of my 33 years of writing these weekly columns. Naturally, I am pleased. It has aroused within me thoughts which each reader should consider regarding his head and what it contains!

Why A Gold Mine?

First, my reader, remember you have in your head—as you read this column—the most marvelous machine in the world. It is the greatest creation of God, the workings of which have never been understood by any scientist or physiologist.

Second, psychologists tell us that we Americans are using our most wonderful brains only to about two and a half per cent of capacity. Some great thinkers have perhaps reached five per cent or more; but probably the men who run our government at Washington or who head our corporations average only about three per cent efficiency.

Why I Am Bullish

For the "long pull" the above sad thought should make us very hopeful. If the brain of the average high-school graduate works, even after graduation, at only two per cent capacity, think what this would mean if this average of two per cent could be increased to four per cent! It could result in doubling the prosperity of our nation; doubling both our production and our standard of living. Surely, we all have a gold mine in our head.

Considering the entire world, the brains of its three billion people probably are working at less than one per cent efficiency. If this average could be increased only slightly, think what it would mean in better living and a higher life for these billions. In addition, it should result in greatly increased foreign trade for us all. The "chain reaction" caused by a small increase in the efficiency of our brains is beyond the most optimistic dreams.

Need Of Spiritual Awakening

This need not mean that we are headed for a mechanistic age. One trouble today is that we all need to catch up spiritually. Brains have made it possible for us to travel faster, hear over long distances, and now—by television—see what is going on anywhere. But, what have the inventive brains and chemical laboratories done to bring us nearer to God? I forecast that a changing attitude is ahead.

Increasing the efficiency of our brains to four per cent or more does not necessarily mean inventing new miraculous machines or discovering free power from solar radiation or gravity. I further forecast that use of increased brain power will result in helping us to make correct decisions and will give us the will power to carry out these decisions. This power is our greatest need. Lack of concentration and lack of faith are due to our weak, unused brains. In fact, it is hard to draw the line between physical brain power and spiritual faith power. Health and happiness are dependent upon both.

Final Thought

Once children were considered an asset. Today too many families look upon children as liabilities or luxuries. If you, my reader, come in this latter group, please think of the wonderful brains you can create and nurture by raising and training more children. This may be your best opportunity for serving mankind. Furthermore, the brains of these children may be far better insurance for your old age than any paper policy you can buy.

One more thought: If you are a woman who loses your job during this "push-button" age which we are entering, do not be discouraged. Remember that a far greater opportunity is awaiting you to stay at home and help develop the brains and souls of your family—or to teach, or even "baby sit." These also have great opportunties.

Researchers Find Answers In Fight Against Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Thousands of research workers are fighting man's battle against disease and untimely death. They love their work, do it quietly and efficiently, and seldom complain or make unreasonable demands. Some work for medical schools; others, for themselves, for pharmaceutical houses, or for industry.

Independent scientists must work on a year to year basis because they are paid through an annual grant. They have neither financial security nor hope of a retirement pension but they would not change for a million. For this reason, many organizations advocate five to seven year grants, which will offer better security and allow more time to work on a single project.

The best research is done by men and women with complete freedom to delve into the unknown. This is easy when the donor has faith in the scientist and allows him to proceed at his own pace. But many grants have strings attached that specify what should be done and how long it should take.

This usually occurs when money is provided for a pet or a commercial project. There are exceptions, as when researcher and donor are interested in the same thing. The physician interested in heart disease will apply to the heart association for a grant of money; one who wishes to do research in cancer or in multiple sclerosis asks these respective societies. Government funds also are available.

Modern medical research is divided equally among large pharmaceutical concerns, medical schools, and hospitals. The cost of the latter two is borne by individuals, industry, public grants, physicians, schools, hospitals, and cancer, heart, and other associations. The salary of the worker is only a fraction of the total expense. Laboratory space and equipment are costly and many projects require technical assistants.

Many of the greatest discoveries were made in one-room laboratories, demonstrating that it is the man and not the building that counts. Hence it is more logical to concentrate on the needs and welfare of the scientists. You never know when a scientist in your own community may discover the cause of cancer.

Research is essential if we expect to maintain our way of life. Everyone appreciates its value yet many of us are unwilling to help defray expenses. Less than 15 years ago Americans were spending only $20 million to find new ways to improve health; last year they spent 10 times as much.

Meanwhile, the decline in the death rate between 1937 and 1952 has increased our earning power by almost $3 billion. In dollars and cents, this means almost half a billion in additional taxes.

LINCOLN "CURE"

M. L. C. writes: Is the Lincoln treatment of any value in cancer? Has it been studied extensively and evaluated scientifically?

REPLY

According to Oliver Field, of the American Medical Association, the Lincoln method was investigated throughly by the Massachusetts Medical Society, and was found to be ineffective in the treatment of cancer.

TB DIAGNOSIS

O. L. writes: How long does it take to diagnose tuberculosis?

REPLY

From days to weeks. The X-ray is the best method and when the sputum test is positive, there is no doubt about the diagnosis. Borderline cases take longer because temperature studies and guinea pig tests are needed to complete the investigation.

COUNTING THE CREASES

M. T. writes: A chubby baby has creases in the thighs but the left has two creases and the right, only one. Does this indicate something wrong?

REPLY

It may indicate a hip defect but let's not draw hasty conclusions. There is no reason why the number of creases should be the same on both sides.

CONTOUR CHANGES

R. C. writes: Is it unusual for a person's nose to grow longer after body growth has stopped?

REPLY

This rarely happens except later in life when the contour of the face changes. The upper lip decreases in size and the tip of the nose has a tendency to droop which makes the structure look longer.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Irving Hoffman, the very near-sighted publicity counsel, took off for a round-the-world jaunt, armed with this letter of introduction from a top M-G-M executive: "You will like this fellow—but since his income is bigger than all of ours combined, there's no need of entertaining him. Order him the very best of foods and wines—but let him grab the check. Make sure, however, that he is wearing his glasses, since obviously he is quite incapable of contacting the check without them." Hoffman also is equipped with a suitcase full of cards to mail his myriad friends from all over the globe. Every one depicts the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Success Story From Brazil

The life of Joao Cafe Filho, now president of Brazil, throws considerable light on the strange political scene that was projected so dramatically on the world screen a few days ago. During most of his career he has been against the government — and for his temerity he has languished successively in jail, in exile from his native land, in a hospital bed.

His troubles began early. Born in Natal in the state of Rio Grande do Norte in 1899, he was a crusading newspaper editor in his native town at the age of 19. This newspaper soon closed down and Cafe started another that made him a reputation as a fighter. In the next decade he started three more papers in other towns and in each case he made himself so unpopular with the authorities that he was forced to shut up shop and go elsewhere.

In 1926 he ran for the federal Chamber of Deputies and claimed the election, but the other man got the seat. Two years later he served 70 days in jail for criticizing the government. The next year, finding that the climate in the Brazilian northeast had become so uncongenial that he could stand it no longer, he took a post on a newspaper in Rio de Janeiro.

In 1930 he was back again, though, and soon he had resurrected one of his old papers and was championing the cause of the Liberal Alliance, formed by Getulio Vargas, his predecessor as president, and Joao Pessoa. When the revolution came, in October, he was in command of an armed group.

The revolution succeeded and he became chief of police in his native city, Natal. He fell into disfavor, and was arrested for plotting against the government, but in 1932 was chief of police again and was badly wounded by would-be assassins.

He was elected a federal deputy in 1934 and served until President Vargas dissolved Congress and became dictator. He disagreed with Vargas and was forced into exile in Argentina.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Hollywood Communists

For two years, Hollywood was surprisingly clear of Communists. After motion pictures were boycotted and theaters picketed by patriotic organizations to prevent American money from filling the treasury of the Communist party, a program was set up which gave the dupe or innocent or even the Communist who had changed his mind an opportunity to clear himself. About 300 persons connected with the industry took advantage of this opportunity to set themselves straight. Surprisingly few of these persons have backslid. It was a good record of work done to help an industry in distress and it must be said that the principal companies cooperated in the program.

One of the by-products of Senator Joe McCarthy's troubles is that Communists and their friends are crawling back into their old jobs and they are raising their heads high. They feared the impact of congressional investigations; now they express themselves in victorious overtones.

One of the sure signs of a defender of the Communists is the use of the word, "super-patriot." Obviously there can be no such concept as a "super-patriot." Either a man is patriotic or he is not. In Hollywood today, anyone who objects to a Communist working and contributing a part of his wages to the treasury of an outlawed party is called a "super-patriot." This is the current party line.

A controversy has arisen over a picture, "Salt of the Earth," which was made by a number of Fifth Amendment Communists and was produced by a union which is Communist-dominated. Many theaters will not show this picture and some newspapers will not accept advertisements for it. "Variety," which is an important and influential newspaper in Hollywood, did publish such an advertisement on the grounds that it must not inquire into the political or religious affiliations of its advertisers.

This raises an interesting question of journalistic propriety, to which Joe Schoenfeld, editor of the Hollywood edition of "Variety," referring to a letter written by Brooks Atkinson, drama critic for The New York Times, said:

"The contents of Atkinson's letter have particular significance to show business where, too quickly of late, people have been condemned to unemployment and economic ruin because of 'lists' circulated among film companies and advertising agencies by super patriots and hate-mongers. It's no longer a question of a person being a known Communist, or one of questionable status due to his refusal to testify before a congressional committee; the situation has degenerated to the point that some people are listed as 'unemployable' because of gossip or poison pen letters, or because some super patriot doesn't like their 'attitude.' By 'attitude' is usually meant their feelings toward super patriots and pressure groups."

Schoenfeld, of course, gives no names, for had he listed cases and instances, it would have been possible to answer him by reference to the record. More Hollywood people were helped by the program than Schoenfeld knows.

Further, Schoenfeld wrote:

"It's ironic, in fact, that one of the most powerful super patriots in Hollywood now is a self-confessed ex-Communist writer, who has been acting as judge and jury of people under a cloud. If a 'hearing' satisfies this ex-Red the person under suspicion gets a clearance through channels — up and down the line of the nationally known super patriots. The 'clearance' finally filters down to potential employers."

There is no person who possesses such powers. It is true that several companies have protected themselves aaginst boycotts and picketing by making detailed inquiries concerning actors, writers, etc., but no person has ever cleared another in a program of three years duration. I know every detail of this program.

What does Brooks Atkinson say in his piece which Schoenfeld regards as "must" reading? Atkinson says:

"In many respects . . . both the administrative and legislative branches of the government show a compulsion toward totalitarian attitudes and practices:

"The government refuses passports to citizens it does not like.

"It blocks the free exchange of ideas by denying visas to eminent European scientists and writers who have been invited by American citizens to attend professional conferences here.

"It has repudiated the scientist who led the world in the construction of the atom bomb because he is not a standardized man.

"It maintains an organization of investigators who collect, among other items, facts concerning the newspaper reading habits of citizens and the mail that goes into their homes.

"It employes political informers . . ."

There is more of the same.

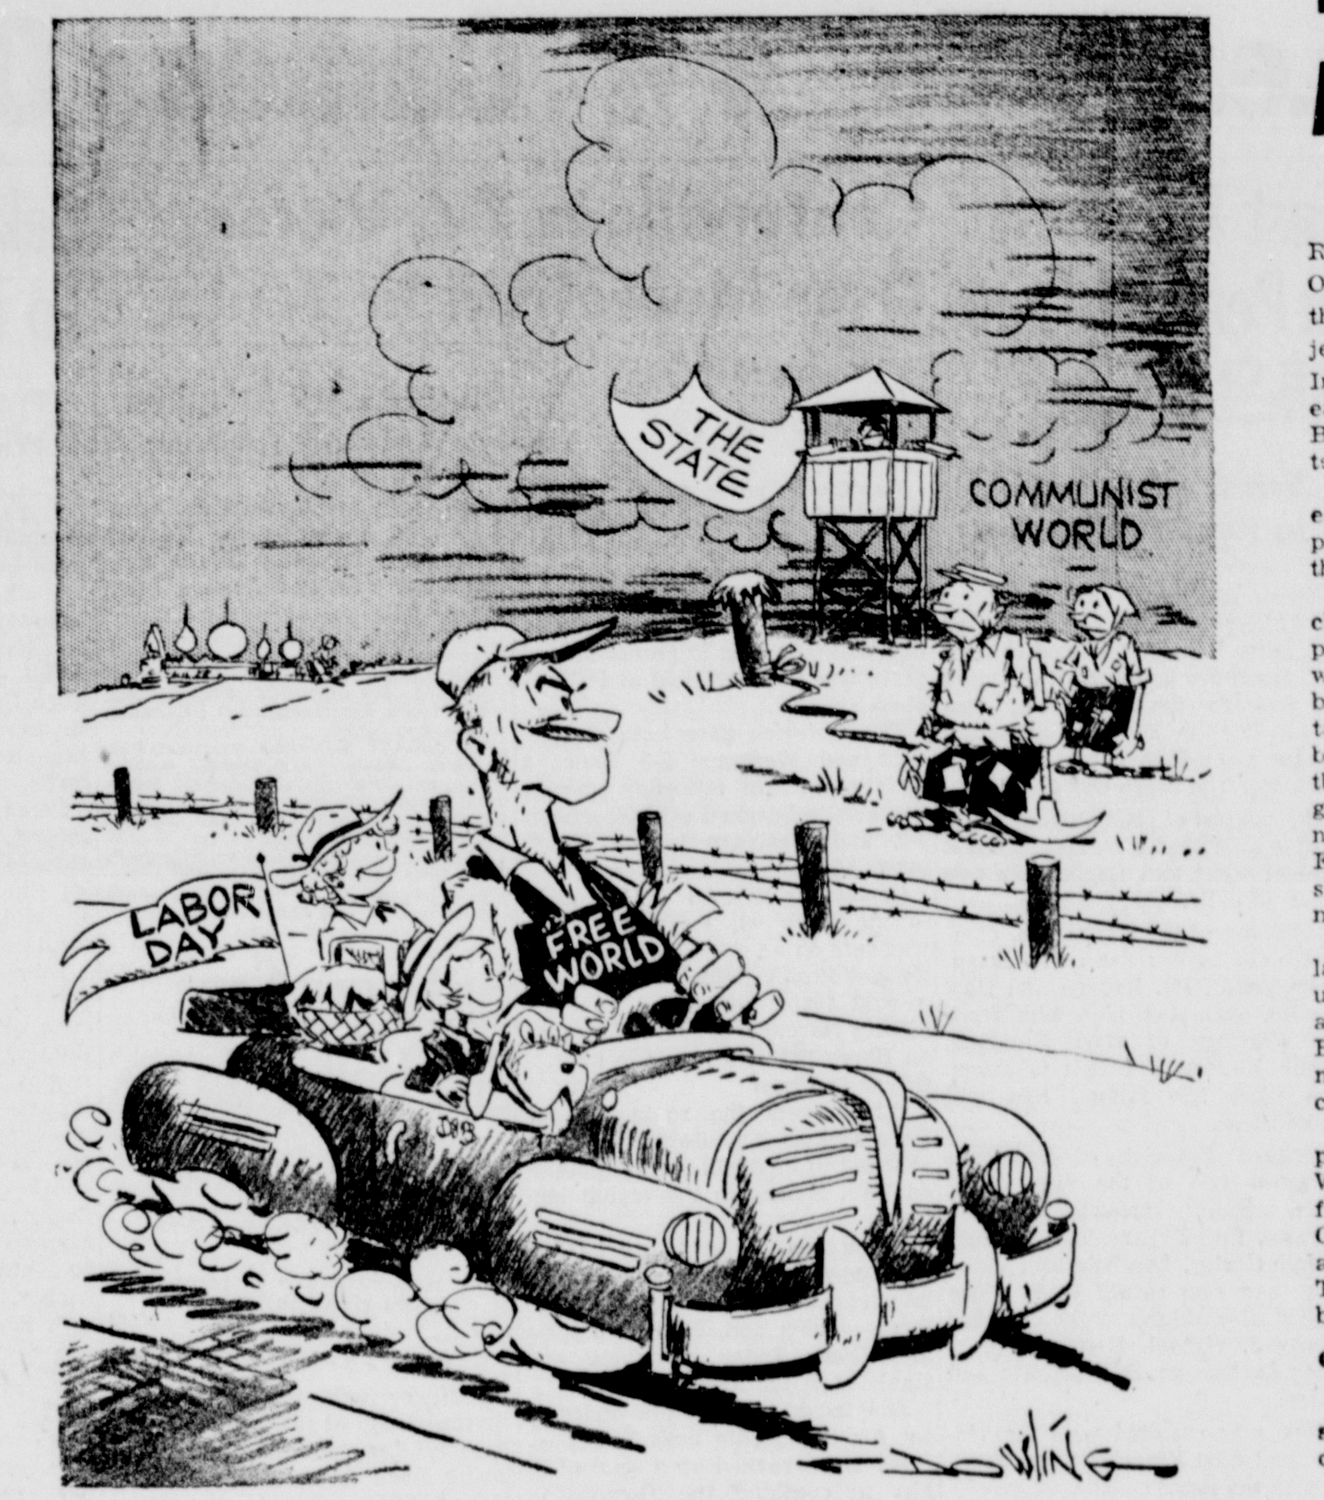
How Do You Like Your Boss?



American Labor's Unity Better Now Than In 19 Years

By George Meany

WASHINGTON—Labor Day, 1954, finds the American trade union movement more closely united than at any time in the last 19 years.

One of the main reasons for this constructive development is the highly successful operation thus far of the no-raiding agreement between the AFL and the CIO. After three months, not a single case has been referred to the impartial umpire. The unions in both camps participating in the agreement have been quietly getting together and settling their organization differences without much fuss. We've still got our fingers crossed, but if the new era of good feeling keeps growing at the present rate, actual labor unity in America may be closer than most observers anticipate.

There are many significant reasons for this, aside from the no-raiding pact. Outside pressures—economic, political and international—have served to weld the once hostile divisions of American labor into virtual alliance on all major issues.

All of labor is deeply disturbed by the slippage in our national economy. Adjusting the official figures to the realities, there are now about 5,000,000 unemployed in the nation. This means considerable unnecessary suffering to the families on the lower rungs of the economic ladder, whom labor must protect. It means a tremendous deficit in purchasing power. Desire To Be Of Service To Country Makes Ohio's Bolton Run For Office

By Stewart Alsop

MENTOR, OHIO

Representative Oliver Bolton, Republican, of the 11th District of Ohio, a handsome man in his mid-thirties, with a quick smile and jet black hair, is running scared. Indeed, to judge from a typical early campaign Sunday spent with Bolton, he is running downright terrified.

Bolton's Sunday makes an interesting commentary on the art of politics as it is now practiced in these United States.

The day started, of course, with church. After that, the first "non-political" stop in this day of rest was the Eastlake vs. Willoughby baseball game, which Bolton was to umpire. Bolton, accompanied by his secretary, Erwin Maus, and this reporter, arrived late for the game, from long experience. But not late enough. The Eastlake Flames—a female team clad in startling vermillion — were still monopolizing the field.

It was some time before the ladies reluctantly gave way. After umpiring a couple of innings, with assurance and considerable dash, Bolton was already late for his next engagement. He never did catch up.

The next stop was an outdoor picnic of the Veterans of Foreign Wars near the little town of Brimfield some 40 miles to the south. On the way Bolton stopped his car at a gas station to ask directions. There were several people about, but no one recognized him.

Critic Mollified

"If I'd been a real pro," Bolton said ruefully as he got into the car, "I'd have held my hand out all around and said, "I'm Ollie Bolton, your congressman.' But I still can't get over the feeling that they'll say, 'so what?' "

The VFW picnic went off well. A tall angry mail-carrier attacked Bolton on the President's veto of the spot pay raise, but Bolton mollified him, and they parted friends. A big veteran insisted on carrying Bolton piggy-back to the car, and he left amid much good-natured laughter, and cries of "Look what you have to go through to be a congressman."

The point was well taken. By this time, it was well on in the afternoon, and the next date—a picnic of the Democratic Romanian-American club—was many miles away. The picnic turned out to be a genial affair, with much jigging to the strains of cornet and flute. It was here that Bolton's opponent, Edward C. Kaley, a heavy man with a long nose and a big cigar, unexpectedly appeared. After the jigging ended, both candidates were called on to speak.

Kaley lumbered to the platform, and made a speech of record brevity. "All I have to say," he said, "'is my Romanian-American friends are working people, and they'll vote like working people. That's all I have to say." He sat down abruptly. The applause was light.

Bolton followed. He too spoke briefly, something about how good it was to come to a meeting like this, "which could only happen in America, where we can get together, all of us of different views and political faiths, and talk about the Cleveland Indians or even more serious problems as friends together." The Romanian-American Democrats applauded their Republican congressman enthusiastically. "My ain't he good-looking," one pretty Romanian-American lady murmured.

In the car, he got a different reception. By this time, Republican county chairman Jean Blair, a witty, white-haired man, had joined the party. "Why didn't you just get up there and wrap yourself in the American flag and let it go at that?" Blair asked. Bolton admitted that maybe he was a bit corny, and everybody laughed.

Grey With Fatigue

After this, the strain began to tell. There was another picnic, for the Knights of Columbus, who were so hospitable that Bolton was too late for the picnic of the Afro-American Methodist Church. Well after midnight, after having driven close to 200 miles in Sunday traffic, and after making contact with a tiny fraction of one per cent of the voters in his district, Rep. Bolton was home again. His face was grey with fatigue.

Why does he do it? Bolton's family is rich, a political liability he is striving hard to overcome. As a lawyer, Bolton could easily lead a pleasant, private life, assured of reaching the top of his profession, with no need to take piggy-back rides or shake a thousand hands a day. What makes Ollie run?

"This may sound kind of pompous," Bolton replied with some embarrassment when asked this question, "but I really get a bang out of feeling that I'm of some service to the country—or anyway to my disrict. And besides, ever since I was a kid I've wanted to be in the middle of things."

Prehaps another part of the answer is to be found in Bolton's little speech to Romanian-Americans, corny or not, it really is good to see America as Bolton sees it at campaign-time — a big, friendly, kindly, unfrighened country. At any rate, the country is lucky to have its Boltons — earnest, intelligent, public-spirited men who are also insane enough to go into politics.

Researchers Find Answers In Fight Against Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Thousands of research workers are fighting man's battle against disease and untimely death. They love their work, do it quietly and efficiently, and seldom complain or make unreasonable demands. Some work for medical schools; others, for themselves, for pharmaceutical houses, or for industry.

Independent scientists must work on a year to year basis because they are paid through an annual grant. They have neither financial security nor hope of a retirement pension but they would not change for a million. For this reason, many organizations advocate five to seven year grants, which will offer better security and allow more time to work on a single project.

The best research is done by men and women with complete freedom to delve into the unknown. This is easy when the donor has faith in the scientist and allows him to proceed at his own pace. But many grants have strings attached that specify what should be done and how long it should take.

This usually occurs when money is provided for a pet or a commercial project. There are exceptions, as when researcher and donor are interested in the same thing. The physician interested in heart disease will apply to the heart association for a grant of money; one who wishes to do research in cancer or in multiple sclerosis asks these respective societies. Government funds also are available.

Modern medical research is divided equally among large pharmaceutical concerns, medical schools, and hospitals. The cost of the latter two is borne by individuals, industry, public grants, physicians, schools, hospitals, and cancer, heart, and other associations. The salary of the worker is only a fraction of the total expense. Laboratory space and equipment are costly and many projects require technical assistants.

Many of the greatest discoveries were made in one-room laboratories, demonstrating that it is the man and not the building that counts. Hence it is more logical to concentrate on the needs and welfare of the scientists. You never know when a scientist in your own community may discover the cause of cancer.

Research is essential if we expect to maintain our way of life. Everyone appreciates its value yet many of us are unwilling to help defray expenses. Less than 15 years ago Americans were spending only $20 million to find new ways to improve health; last year they spent 10 times as much.

Meanwhile, the decline in the death rate between 1937 and 1952 has increased our earning power by almost $3 billion. In dollars and cents, this means almost half a billion in additional taxes.

LINCOLN "CURE"

M. L. C. writes: Is the Lincoln treatment of any value in cancer? Has it been studied extensively and evaluated scientifically?

REPLY

According to Oliver Field, of the American Medical Association, the Lincoln method was investigated throughly by the Massachusetts Medical Society, and was found to be ineffective in the treatment of cancer.

TB DIAGNOSIS

O. L. writes: How long does it take to diagnose tuberculosis?

REPLY

From days to weeks. The X-ray is the best method and when the sputum test is positive, there is no doubt about the diagnosis. Borderline cases take longer because temperature studies and guinea pig tests are needed to complete the investigation.

COUNTING THE CREASES

M. T. writes: A chubby baby has creases in the thighs but the left has two creases and the right, only one. Does this indicate something wrong?

REPLY

It may indicate a hip defect but let's not draw hasty conclusions. There is no reason why the number of creases should be the same on both sides.

CONTOUR CHANGES

R. C. writes: Is it unusual for a person's nose to grow longer after body growth has stopped?

REPLY

This rarely happens except later in life when the contour of the face changes. The upper lip decreases in size and the tip of the nose has a tendency to droop which makes the structure look longer.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Irving Hoffman, the very near-sighted publicity counsel, took off for a round-the-world jaunt, armed with this letter of introduction from a top M-G-M executive: "You will like this fellow—but since his income is bigger than all of ours combined, there's no need of entertaining him. Order him the very best of foods and wines—but let him grab the check. Make sure, however, that he is wearing his glasses, since obviously he is quite incapable of contacting the check without them." Hoffman also is equipped with a suitcase full of cards to mail his myriad friends from all over the globe. Every one depicts the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Seixas Plays Rex Hartwig In Net Final

Richardson, Rosewall Lose In Semi-Finals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 5 (INS)—Vic Seixas, Uncle Sam's crafty perennial runnerup, and second string Australian Davis Cupper Rex Hartwig, advanced to the finals today in the national tennis championships.

Second-seeded Seixas, working methodically and playing all the angles, got his third crack at the amateur net jackpot when he outlasted Ham Richardson, 21-year-old intercollegiate champion from Baton Rouge, La., 6-3, 12-14, 8-6, 6-2 in a scintillating duel of service control.

Hartwig upended fellow-countryman Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, in the other semi-final to gain a title slot against Vic tomorrow and set up a possible preview of this year's Davis Cup competition in Australia.

Top-seeded Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, Calif., became the first women's finalist when she defeated 18-year-old Darlene Hard, 6-2, 6-3.

Doris Hart, second seeded entry from Coral Gables, Fla., and a five-time runner-up in the national netfest, quickly joined Miss Brough as a finalist for the title vacated by little Mo Connolly.

Doris eased by her doubles partner, fifth-seeded Shirley Fry, Akron, O., 6-2, 6-0 in less time than it takes to get a manicure.

Milwaukee Wins First Game, 11-8

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5 (INS) —The third-place Milwaukee Braves kept their pennant hopes alive today by scoring an 11 to 8 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs in the first half of a doubleheader at Crosley Field in Cincinnati.

The victory moved the Braves to within five and one-half games of the league-leading New York Giants who dropped a 7 to 4 verdict to the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Ted Kluszewski belted his 43rd homer of the year with one on in the ninth for the Redlegs to set a new club total base record.

It was the sixth straight win for the Milwaukee club.

Yanks Receive Crushing Blow From Senators

Washington Defeats Sain In Ninth, 5-4

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (INS)—Eddie Yost's ninth-inning single with two out broke up a tense game today to give Washington a 5 to 4 win over the New York Yankees and deliver a crushing blow to the champions' dwindling pennant hopes.

Yost's sharp liner down the left field line scoring Ed FitzGerald from third came with the score tied 4 to 4, and gave Bob Porterfield his 13th win against 12 losses.

Johnny Sain, the last of four Yankee pitchers, was the loser.

It was a see-saw battle all the way. The Yanks tied it 3 to 3 in the sixth, but Pete Runnels put Washington ahead in the 8th with a homer and Gil McDougald countered with another round-tripper in the ninth.

The Nats jumped on starter Ralph Branca for three runs in the first on a walk, two singles, a double and two errors.

Maury McDermott started for the Senators and had a no-hitter for six innings when he gave up a single and three walks, forcing in a run.

The Yankees added two more in the seventh on Enos Slaughter's double off Porterfield.

McDermott and Porterfield combined to hold New York to four hits. The Nats collected nine safeties off four Yankee pitchers.

Lawrence Scores 12th Win Over Cubs, 6-2

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5 (INS) —Rookie Brooks Lawrence halted a seven-game St. Louis losing streak today by stopping the Chicago Cubs with six hits to record a 6 to 2 triumph before 10,007 fans at Busch Stadium in St. Louis.

The former Columbus farm hand picked up his 12th win of the season since reporting to the Redbirds last June 24.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals were pounding three Bruin pitchers for 12 hits. Starter Howie Pollet was charged with his eighth loss of the season.

Both Cub runs were scored on homers. Right fielder Hank Sauer belted his 37th homer in the fourth inning and Ralph Kiner slammed his 21st of the year in the seventh.

East Tops West In Pen-Mar Loop All-Star Game

Scores 6-0 Triumph In Hyndman Contest

Four pitchers, namely, Glen Ford, Vincent King, Gerald Loibel and Lefty Lou Hite, hurled shutout ball yesterday as the East defeated the West for the second time this season in the Pen-Mar Baseball League's All-Star game at Hyndman, Pa. The score was 6-0.

The quartet of East hurlers yielded five scattered hits, struck out a total of eight and issued only two bases on balls.

Members of the East team, composed of players from Hyndman, Wellersburg, Mt. Savage and Barrelville, collected nine hits from the offerings of Carl Emerick, Bobby Keister and Don O'Haver. The West trio fanned five and walked five.

Richard Emerick of Hyndman garnered two of the nine blows while Johnny Horwath, "Rags" Morgan, Bob Bryant, Bob Cessna, Ronnie Carter, Lou Hite and Vince King had one safety each. The West's five blows were divided among J. Hansel, Keister, Pinch-hitter Lashbaugh, Buckingham and Miller.

Ford was credited with the victory and Carl Emerick was charged with the loss.

The East scored its first run in the opening frame after two away when Rich Emerick singled, pilfered second, took third on Horwath's single and came home on an outfield error.

Vince King, whose home run won the first game of the series between the teams, 3-2, came through with a two-run double during a four-run rally in the fifth inning of yesterday's game. Skidmore walked and Carter beat out a bunt and both scored on King's two-base swat. After Pushwal walked, Keister uncorked two wild pitches, enabling King to score while Pushwal advanced to third. Shaffer walked and Keister was replaced by Don O'Haver who passed Myers, filling the bases. Robeson's sacrifice fly sent Pushwal home with the final run of the inning.

Dodgers Take Series Finale From Giants

Brooklyn Beats Antonelli, 7-4

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers bounced back after two stunning setbacks to salvage the finale of the three-game series from the New York Giants today 7-4 and keep their faint National League pennant hopes alive. Clutch hitting by Junior Gilliam and Duke Snider shaved the Giants' first-place margin over the Brooks to four games.

Johnny Podres started for the Dodgers and pitched three-hit ball for seven innings before he tired in the eighth and had to be relieved by Carl Erskine, yesterday's starter and loser. Podres who underwent an appendectomy last June, was credited with the victory, his ninth of the season and only his second since June 13. He has lost six.

Johnny Antonelli, the National League's only 20-game winner, was the Giants' starter but he had to be lifted for a pinch hitter in the fifth. Don Hoak's leadoff triple in the Dodgers' half of the fifth, Podres' sacrifice fly and Gilliam's 13th home run of the season powered Brooklyn to a 3-1 lead.

The Giants took an early 1-0 lead on Hank Thompson's home run in the first inning, his 24th of the season which tied his previous personal high set last year.

Seixas Plays Rex Hartwig In Net Final

Richardson, Rosewall Lose In Semi-Finals

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 5 (INS)—Vic Seixas, Uncle Sam's crafty perennial runnerup, and second string Australian Davis Cupper Rex Hartwig, advanced to the finals today in the national tennis championships.

Second-seeded Seixas, working methodically and playing all the angles, got his third crack at the amateur net jackpot when he outlasted Ham Richardson, 21-year-old intercollegiate champion from Baton Rouge, La., 6-3, 12-14, 8-6, 6-2 in a scintillating duel of service control.

Hartwig upended fellow-countryman Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, in the other semi-final to gain a title slot against Vic tomorrow and set up a possible preview of this year's Davis Cup competition in Australia.

Top-seeded Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, Calif., became the first women's finalist when she defeated 18-year-old Darlene Hard, 6-2, 6-3.

Doris Hart, second seeded entry from Coral Gables, Fla., and a five-time runner-up in the national netfest, quickly joined Miss Brough as a finalist for the title vacated by little Mo Connolly.

Doris eased by her doubles partner, fifth-seeded Shirley Fry, Akron, O., 6-2, 6-0 in less time than it takes to get a manicure.

Milwaukee Wins First Game, 11-8

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5 (INS) — The third-place Milwaukee Braves kept their pennant hopes alive today by scoring an 11 to 8 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs in the first half of a doubleheader at Crosley Field in Cincinnati.

The victory moved the Braves to within five and one-half games of the league-leading New York Giants who dropped a 7 to 4 verdict to the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Ted Kluszewski belted his 43rd homer of the year with one on in the ninth for the Redlegs to set a new club total base record.

It was the sixth straight win for the Milwaukee club.

Yanks Receive Crushing Blow From Senators

Washington Defeats Sain In Ninth, 5-4

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (INS)—Eddie Yost's ninth-inning single with two out broke up a tense game today to give Washington a 5 to 4 win over the New York Yankees and deliver a crushing blow to the champions' dwindling pennant hopes.

Yost's sharp liner down the left field line scoring Ed FitzGerald from third came with the score tied 4 to 4, and gave Bob Porterfield his 13th win against 12 losses.

Johnny Sain, the last of four Yankee pitchers, was the loser.

It was a see-saw battle all the way. The Yanks tied it 3 to 3 in the sixth, but Pete Runnels put Washington ahead in the 8th with a homer and Gil McDougald countered with another round-tripper in the ninth.

The Nats jumped on starter Ralph Branca for three runs in the first on a walk, two singles, a double and two errors.

Maury McDermott started for the Senators and had a no-hitter for six innings when he gave up a single and three walks, forcing in a run.

The Yankees added two more in the seventh on Enos Slaughter's double off Porterfield.

McDermott and Porterfield combined to hold New York to four hits. The Nats collected nine safeties off four Yankee pitchers.

East Tops West In Pen-Mar Loop All-Star Game

Scores 6-0 Triumph In Hyndman Contest

Four pitchers, namely, Glen Ford, Vincent King, Gerald Loibel and Lefty Lou Hite, hurled shutout ball yesterday as the East defeated the West for the second time this season in the Pen-Mar Baseball League's All-Star game at Hyndman, Pa. The score was 6-0.

The quartet of East hurlers yielded five scattered hits, struck out a total of eight and issued only two bases on balls.

Richard Emerick of Hyndman garnered two of the nine blows while Johnny Horwath, "Rags" Morgan, Bob Bryant, Bob Cessna, Ronnie Carter, Lou Hite and Vince King had one safety each. The West's five blows were divided among J. Hansel, Keister, Pinch-hitter Lashbaugh, Buckingham and Miller.

Ford was credited with the victory and Carl Emerick was charged with the loss.

The East scored its first run in the opening frame after two away when Rich Emerick singled, pilfered second, took third on Horwath's single and came home on an outfield error.

Vince King, whose home run won the first game of the series between the teams, 3-2, came through with a two-run double during a four-run rally in the fifth inning of yesterday's game. Skidmore walked and Carter beat out a bunt and both scored on King's two-base swat. After Pushwal walked, Keister uncorked two wild pitches, enabling King to score while Pushwal advanced to third. Shaffer walked and Keister was replaced by Don O'Haver who passed Myers, filling the bases. Robeson's sacrifice fly sent Pushwal home with the final run of the inning.

Centerville Is 7-6 Victor Over Moorefield In Tenth

Westvaco Trims Frostburg, 12-7

Centerville nosed out the Moorefield Legion, pennant winners, 7-6, in 10 innings, and Westvaco defeated the Frostburg Demons, 12-7, in the second games of their best-of-five All-States Baseball Association playoff series in games staged yesterday at Moorefield and Frostburg.

The victories gave both Centerville and Westvaco 2-0 leads in their series. In Saturday games, Centerville knocked off Moorefield, 7-0, and Westvaco topped Frostburg, 8-2.

Centerville nosed out Moorefield in the tenth when Harold Welsh was safe on an error, took third on Dwight Rose's fielder's choice and a wild throw to second base by pitcher Harold Mongold and scored on Harry Oliver's sacrifice bunt.

Oliver Is Victor

Oliver went the route for the Pennsylvanians while the loss was charged to Mongold, who supplanted Paul Raines in the eighth inning.

Welsh and Dwight Rose headed the Centerville stickers with three hits each. Warden Hott banged three singles and Wally Sherman and Glenn Liller a double and single each for Moorefield.

The third game of the series is set for Centerville next Saturday.

Westvaco racked up a total of 19 hits in crushing the Demons in the Mountain City. Ray Rizzzo was the victim of the bombardment.

Vernon Rotruck and "Bud" Mosser were the "big guns" for the Papermakers with four hits each. Rotruck banged a triple and three singles while Mosser walloped a two-bagger and three one-base blows. Donnelly and Ocie Raines collected three hits each and Broadwater and Leo Ryan had two bingles apiece.

Ryan Rescues Brodie

Leo Ryan, who replaced Jack Brodie on the mound in the third inning, when Frostburg rallied for five runs, got credit for the victory. He yielded seven hits and three of Frostburg's seven runs.

Denny Shuck with a triple and double, Barney Spearman with a two-bagger and single and Jimmy Byrnes with a three-base wallop and single paced the Frostburg hitters.

Frostburg will be the scene of the third game of this semi-final playoff series next Saturday. Scores:

Dodgers Take Series Finale From Giants

Brooklyn Beats Antonelli, 7-4

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers bounced back after two stunning setbacks to salvage the finale of the three-game series from the New York Giants today 7-4 and keep their faint National League pennant hopes alive. Clutch hitting by Junior Gilliam and Duke Snider shaved the Giants' first-place margin over the Brooks to four games.

Johnny Podres started for the Dodgers and pitched three-hit ball for seven innings before he tired in the eighth and had to be relieved by Carl Erskine, yesterday's starter and loser. Podres who underwent an appendectomy last June, was credited with the victory, his ninth of the season and only his second since June 13. He has lost six.

Johnny Antonelli, the National League's only 20-game winner, was the Giants' starter but he had to be lifted for a pinch hitter in the fifth. Don Hoak's leadoff triple in the Dodgers' half of the fifth, Podres' sacrifice fly and Gilliam's 13th home run of the season powered Brooklyn to a 3-1 lead.

The Giants took an early 1-0 lead on Hank Thompson's home run in the first inning, his 24th of the season which tied his previous personal high set last year.

Divorcee To Stand Trial In Shooting

DEVIZES, England, Sept. 5 (AP)—A 40-yead-old divorcee has been ordered to stand trial for the attempted murder of Lord Vivian, London theatrical producer, after he told a bedside court hearing he could not believe now she wanted to kill him.

Drawn and pale, Lord Vivian was propped up with pillows to tell Devizes magistrates his version of how he suffered severe abdominal and wrist wounds the night of July 1.

Mrs. Mary Wheeler, charged with shooting with intent to murder and unlawfully wounding the 48-year-old impresario, sat in an armchair a few feet away.

The United States maintains two ocean stations in the Pacific to aid weather and navigation studies. One ship is stationed 900 miles northeast of Honolulu, the other mid-way between Honolulu and Tokyo.

On August 9, 1954 a petition was presented to the Mayor and City Council by Mr. William R. Carscaden consisting of 189 pages; each of which bore the following heading:

"PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO THE CHARTER OF THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND PROHIBITING THE APPROPRIATION OF FUNDS, THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS, THE PARTICIPATION IN OR CONTRACTING WITH THE STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND IN CONNECTION WITH ITS OVERHEAD BRIDGE PLAN FOR THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND."

"To the Mayor of the City of Cumberland:

"Pursuant to the provisions of Section 217 of Chapter 702 of the Acts of 1951 providing for Amendments to the Charter of the City of Cumberland, we, the signers of this Petition, each of whom is a registered voter of the City of Cumberland, hereby propose by Petition the following Charter Amendment by adding a new section to the Charter to be known as Section 81(ee):"

"OVERHEAD BRIDGE"

81(ee). The Mayor and City Council shall not appropriate any funds, or issue any bonds, or in any other manner participate in, or contract with, the State Roads Commission of Maryland in connection with its proposed Overhead Bridge Plan for the City of Cumberland, which runs in a Southwesterly direction from a point at or near Lindnerville over the business and residential sections of the City to a point at or near Braddock Road."

Chapter 702 of the public Laws of Maryland, House Bill 523, Section I, paragraph 217 requires that in such a petition the Mayor shall "verify the signatures and make public announcement to the effect that the signatures are authentic, or are not authentic, within thirty days from the time of receiving such petition. If the Mayor announces that the signatures in his opinion are not authentic, he shall make public his specific reasons for so doing, and he shall explain how the defects in the petition can be remedied."

The following names which appear on the above mentioned Petition cannot be authenticated because the signer has used initials instead of the Christian name as it appears on the registration records of the City of Cumberland.

Divorcee To Stand Trial In Shooting

DEVIZES, England, Sept. 5 (AP)—A 40-yead-old divorcee has been ordered to stand trial for the attempted murder of Lord Vivian, London theatrical producer, after he told a bedside court hearing he could not believe now she wanted to kill him.

Drawn and pale, Lord Vivian was propped up with pillows to tell Devizes magistrates his version of how he suffered severe abdominal and wrist wounds the night of July 1.

Mrs. Mary Wheeler, charged with shooting with intent to murder and unlawfully wounding the 48-year-old impresario, sat in an armchair a few feet away.

The United States maintains two ocean stations in the Pacific to aid weather and navigation studies. One ship is stationed 900 miles northeast of Honolulu, the other mid-way between Honolulu and Tokyo.

On August 9, 1954 a petition was presented to the Mayor and City Council by Mr. William R. Carscaden consisting of 189 pages; each of which bore the following heading:

"PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO THE CHARTER OF THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND PROHIBITING THE APPROPRIATION OF FUNDS, THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS, THE PARTICIPATION IN OR CONTRACTING WITH THE STATE ROADS COMMISSION OF MARYLAND IN CONNECTION WITH ITS OVERHEAD BRIDGE PLAN FOR THE CITY OF CUMBERLAND."

"To the Mayor of the City of Cumberland:

"Pursuant to the provisions of Section 217 of Chapter 702 of the Acts of 1951 providing for Amendments to the Charter of the City of Cumberland, we, the signers of this Petition, each of whom is a registered voter of the City of Cumberland, hereby propose by Petition the following Charter Amendment by adding a new section to the Charter to be known as Section 81(ee):"

"OVERHEAD BRIDGE"

81(ee). The Mayor and City Council shall not appropriate any funds, or issue any bonds, or in any other manner participate in, or contract with, the State Roads Commission of Maryland in connection with its proposed Overhead Bridge Plan for the City of Cumberland, which runs in a Southwesterly direction from a point at or near Lindnerville over the business and residential sections of the City to a point at or near Braddock Road."

Chapter 702 of the public Laws of Maryland, House Bill 523, Section I, paragraph 217 requires that in such a petition the Mayor shall "verify the signatures and make public announcement to the effect that the signatures are authentic, or are not authentic, within thirty days from the time of receiving such petition. If the Mayor announces that the signatures in his opinion are not authentic, he shall make public his specific reasons for so doing, and he shall explain how the defects in the petition can be remedied."

The following names which appear on the above mentioned Petition cannot be authenticated because the signer has used initials instead of the Christian name as it appears on the registration records of the City of Cumberland.

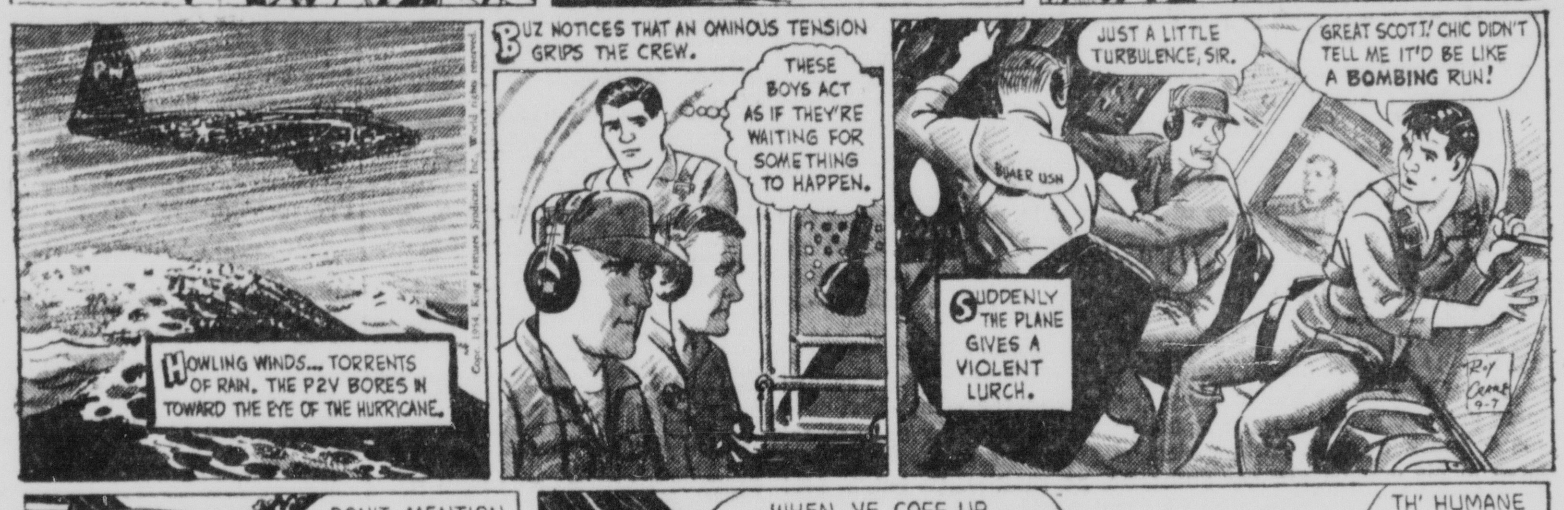
I'M CATCHING ON, LIEUTENANT. THESE WEATHER RECONNAISSANCE FLIGHTS ARE PRETTY RUGGED. JUST WHY DO THE NAVY AND AIR FORCE MAKE THEM?
IT'S A PUBLIC SAFETY OPERATION, MR. SAWYER.
Roy Crane 9-6
IT SERVES TO WARN SHIPS AND COASTAL CITIES IN THE PATH OF A STORM. IT SAVES MILLIONS OF DOLLARS AND COUNTLESS LIVES.
A P2V "NEPTUNE", THE NAVY HURRICANE HUNTER, HEADS TOWARD A TROPICAL DISTURBANCE IN THE ATLANTIC.
SOON IT IS BUCKING DRIVING RAIN SQUALLS AND HEDGE-HOPPING THE TOWERING CRESTS OF A WILD SEA.
HEY, AREN'T WE FLYING PRETTY LOW?
TOO LOW, IF YOU ASK ME, BUZ. BUT IT'S NECESSARY. WE HAVE TO SEE THE WAVE ACTION TO DETERMINE THE WIND VELOCITY.



HOWLING WINDS... TORRENTS OF RAIN. THE P2V BORES IN TOWARD THE EYE OF THE HURRICANE.
BUZ NOTICES THAT AN OMINOUS TENSION GRIPS THE CREW.
THESE BOYS ACT AS IF THEY'RE WAITING FOR SOMETHING TO HAPPEN.
JUST A LITTLE TURBULENCE, SIR.

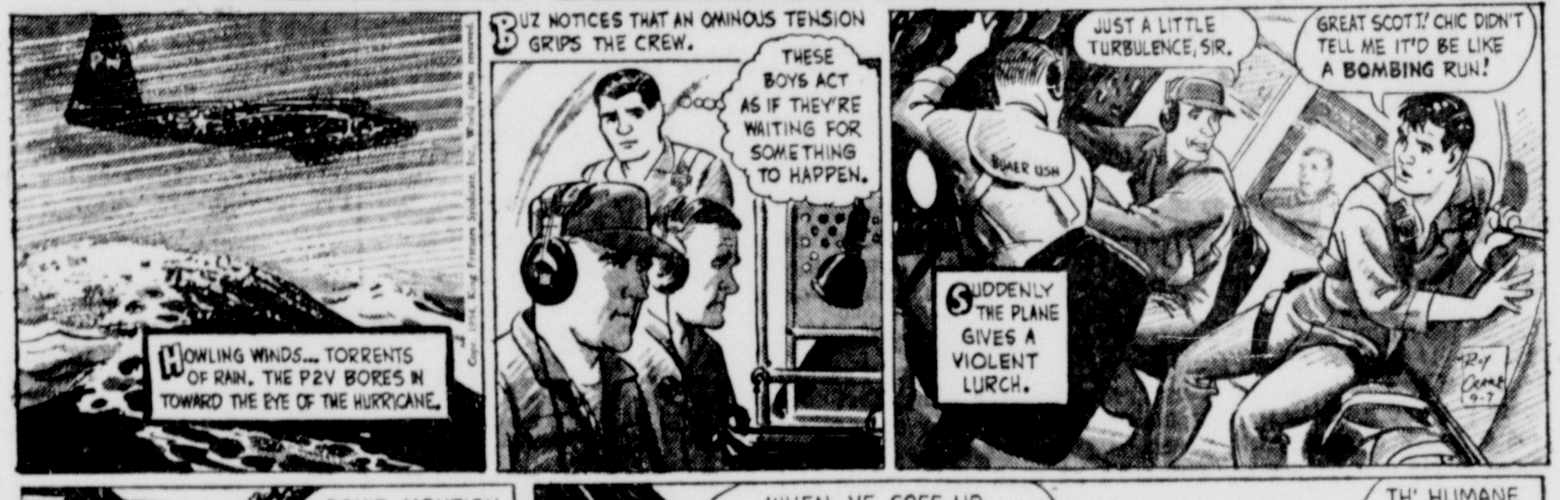
SOON IT IS BUCKING DRIVING RAIN SQUALLS AND HEDGE-HOPPING THE TOWERING CRESTS OF A WILD SEA.
HEY, AREN'T WE FLYING PRETTY LOW?
TOO LOW, IF YOU ASK ME, BUZ. BUT IT'S NECESSARY. WE HAVE TO SEE THE WAVE ACTION TO DETERMINE THE WIND VELOCITY.



HOWLING WINDS... TORRENTS OF RAIN. THE P2V BORES IN TOWARD THE EYE OF THE HURRICANE.
BUZ NOTICES THAT AN OMINOUS TENSION GRIPS THE CREW.
THESE BOYS ACT AS IF THEY'RE WAITING FOR SOMETHING TO HAPPEN.
JUST A LITTLE TURBULENCE, SIR.

New Speech Correctionist Arrives In Cumberland

Peter B. Denison, a native of New Haven, Conn., arrived here last week to assume his duties as speech correctionist for the Allegany County Health Department. He held his first clinic Friday and another one is scheduled tomorrow.

Denison has an A.B. in history from Yale and an A.M. in speech correction from Northwestern. He spent some time at Martin Hall, Bristol, R.I., to correct his own tendency to stutter.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the League for Crippled Children, said that much of Denison's work will be with parochial school children. There will be group therapy and individual instruction; clinics; home visits, and consultative periods at the league headquarters, City Hall Square.

Speech therapy is one of the many services provided by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. This phase of helping handicapped children who can be aided, is co-ordinated with the program in the public school system and the County-City health department. Polio, cerebral palsy, spastic cases, congenital deformities and other remedial handicaps are all cared for under the league program for crippled children.

Approximately 120 cases of speech defects are listed in the league files.

Schlong Expert

You know what a schlong is? If you have followed the careers of Ralph Edwards or "Beat The Clock" or any other shows of that ilk, you have seen a lot of schlongs. A schlong, to end this suspense, is a rather messy stunt. A contestant gets a pie in the face. The audience howls. That is a schlong.

Pies in the face may be the oldest gimmick in show business, probably antedating Euripides, and naturally anything that festooned with age would wind up on television. Television has not only got its share of schlongs but it has already bred its own schlong experts, not the least of which is a man named Frank Wayne, who with another man named Bob Howard, devises all the schlongs for "Beat the Clock."

The most memorable schlong ever devised by this pair involved a conveyor belt arrangement just loaded with chocolate cream pies. Then they got a husband and wife team of contestants and put the husband where the conveyor belt would slap pies in his face. Idea was that the wife had to beat it across the stage, pick up an empty plate and beat it back to conveyor belt to take each pie off before it squished in the face of her husband. According to their careful prior calculations, Wayne and Howard figured the husband would get only about every eighth pie in the kisser.

It didn't work out that way, though. The wife turned out to be a real sluefoot at getting across the stage and the husband got conked by 18 pies while the wife was struggling with the first one. It was a great deal in the annals of schlongs.

All of Wayne's schlongs are pretested in order to time them and also to make sure they won't maim some housewife from Nebraska. (So far as is known, no schlong has disabled a contestant on television yet. But then television is still young.) Stand-ins for the schlong pre-testings are hungry, out-of-work actors who don't mind pies in the face and have been known to eat a bit of them while working.

Wayne selects the contestants, eyeing them carefully for stamina, durability and sunniness of disposition. (Some day—you mark my words—a schlong expert is going to slip up on his character evaluation and pick a contestant who will catch the pie and hurl it right back at Ralph Edwards. That will be a great day in the annals of schlongs, too.)

Once Wayne picked a couple that looked just right for an athletic-type schlong, something that involved a lot of running around. They looked well-coordinated and reasonably intelligent, or at least as intelligent as contestants ever get. Just as they were about to go on, the woman asked: "Does it matter if you're just a little bit pregnant?" That eliminated her.

Besides "Beat the Clock," Wayne, who has worked for the Goodson and Todman empire for four and a half years without getting a single ulcer, both writes and acts in those little skits which are designed to puzzle the panelists on "It's News To Me." Wayne reads all the papers for possible stories, then writes four or five 30 to 60 second skits, which are meant both to get some laughs and provide the panel information.

In the course of this work, he has played bookies, fighters, dozens of Russians (he's a master at dialect), little boys—"At my size (six foot two and 220 pounds) that's not easy"—a woman, Tarzan and a pigeon. That last was a story about the city of Philadelphia buying an electronic device to keep the pigeons from City Hall. Wayne played the part of a pigeon being indignant about the whole thing. The costume company had pigeon costumes, all right, but Wayne is so big it took three pigeon costumes to make one pigeon out of him.

Wayne has been in show business for 29 years, playing vaudeville, night clubs, stock, and just about everything but tent shows. I was curious to know whether his present odd jobs satisfied him.

"Well," said Wayne, "I live comfortably. My family has the things they need. It's not fancifully high, but I make a damned good income. I built my home. My son can go to a good school. I enjoy my work. I lack nothing. I've a chance to perform every week, to keep my hand in. I'm basically a fun-loving guy and get a lot of fun out of writing stunts. I'm interested in what's going on in the world and I can keep up with that. And I'm not even breeding an ulcer."

Driver Benefits Approved Here By Union, Firms

A number of contract agreements have been reached between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) and area bakeries and transportation firms, according to C. E. Stutzman, union business agent.

On October 1 three local bakeries, Ort Brothers, Schmidt and Community Bakery will put into effect a health and welfare program for its driver-salesmen and truck washers. Stutzman said the truck washers will also receive a $2.50 weekly pay raise.

The health and welfare programs were agreed upon voluntarily by the bakeries, Stutzman pointed out. There are about 100 men involved in the contract changes. The pact runs until March 1, 1956.

Stutzman also announced that over-the-road drivers for six trucking firms received a 10 cents per hour pay raise effective last Wednesday. About 100 drivers are effected.

Stutzman said the firms which granted the pay hike in accordance with terms of a three-year contract signed some time ago are Novick, Charlton Brothers, Chaney Transportation, Maryland Motor Lines, Morris Motor Company and Cumberland Motor Lines.

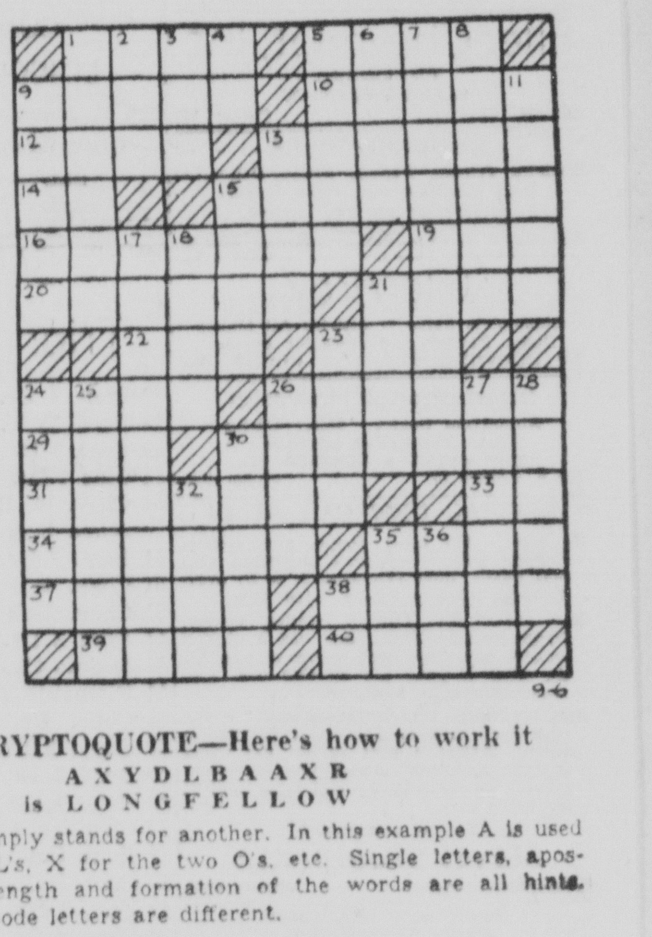
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

BEWARE OF SUCH ADVICE

BEWARE of the advisor who tells you that "a seven or higher card from your partner is an encouraging card, urging you to lead that suit, and a six or lower is a discouraging card indicating lack of a desire for its lead." Suppose your lowest card is a seven or eight, or the highest card you can afford is a five or six? Actually the sound advice on this subject is that an encouraging card is one you read as probably higher than his lowest, and a discouraging card is one which seems likely to be his lowest. So it is all a comparative matter, without regard to any fixed norm.

Both East and West passed that, as they thought there was a chance to beat the spade game, whereas a contract of 5-Clubs by themselves might be precarious—in both of which they were right. But they didn't cash in on their opportunity to beat the spade effort.

West began with the orthodox lead of the club K and then gave the contract to the declarer by repeating the suit with the Q. South ruffed that, drew trumps and ran four heart tricks, discarding a diamond from his own hand. Later he gave the defense two diamond tricks, but that made only three for the opposition, so his game was luckily in the bag.

East let West hear plenty for making a second club lead.

"I did that because you gave me a high card on my opening lead," said the culprit. "When you played the 7, I couldn't very well shift suits."

"If you had looked around," responded East, "you would have seen all cards lower than my seven. Two were in dummy, South played one and you had the others. So mine was bound to be the lowest card I held."

South joined in the lesson, saying that sometimes even a 3 can be encouraging if the holder can be read as also probably holding the 2 of its suit.

New Speech Correctionist Arrives In Cumberland

Peter B. Denison, a native of New Haven, Conn., arrived here last week to assume his duties as speech correctionist for the Allegany County Health Department. He held his first clinic Friday and another one is scheduled tomorrow.

Denison has an A.B. in history from Yale and an A.M. in speech correction from Northwestern. He spent some time at Martin Hall, Bristol, R.I., to correct his own tendency to stutter.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the League for Crippled Children, said that much of Denison's work will be with parochial school children. There will be group therapy and individual instruction; clinics; home visits, and consultative periods at the league headquarters, City Hall Square.

Speech therapy is one of the many services provided by the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. This phase of helping handicapped children who can be aided, is co-ordinated with the program in the public school system and the County-City health department. Polio, cerebral palsy, spastic cases, congenital deformities and other remedial handicaps are all cared for under the league program for crippled children.

Approximately 120 cases of speech defects are listed in the league files.

Schlong Expert

You know what a schlong is? If you have followed the careers of Ralph Edwards or "Beat The Clock" or any other shows of that ilk, you have seen a lot of schlongs. A schlong, to end this suspense, is a rather messy stunt. A contestant gets a pie in the face. The audience howls. That is a schlong.

Pies in the face may be the oldest gimmick in show business, probably antedating Euripides, and naturally anything that festooned with age would wind up on television. Television has not only got its share of schlongs but it has already bred its own schlong experts, not the least of which is a man named Frank Wayne, who with another man named Bob Howard, devises all the schlongs for "Beat the Clock."

The most memorable schlong ever devised by this pair involved a conveyor belt arrangement just loaded with chocolate cream pies. Then they got a husband and wife team of contestants and put the husband where the conveyor belt would slap pies in his face. Idea was that the wife had to beat it across the stage, pick up an empty plate and beat it back to conveyor belt to take each pie off before it squished in the face of her husband. According to their careful prior calculations, Wayne and Howard figured the husband would get only about every eighth pie in the kisser.

It didn't work out that way, though. The wife turned out to be a real sluefoot at getting across the stage and the husband got conked by 18 pies while the wife was struggling with the first one. It was a great deal in the annals of schlongs.

All of Wayne's schlongs are pre-tested in order to time them and also to make sure they won't maim some housewife from Nebraska. (So far as is known, no schlong has disabled a contestant on television yet. But then television is still young.) Stand-ins for the schlong pre-testings are hungry, out-of-work actors who don't mind pies in the face and have been known to eat a bit of them while working.

Wayne selects the contestants, eyeing them carefully for stamina, durability and sunniness of disposition. (Some day—you mark my words—a schlong expert is going to slip up on his character evaluation and pick a contestant who will catch the pie and hurl it right back at Ralph Edwards. That will be a great day in the annals of schlongs, too.)

Once Wayne picked a couple that looked just right for an athletic-type schlong, something that involved a lot of running around. They looked well-coordinated and reasonably intelligent, or at least as intelligent as contestants ever get. Just as they were about to go on, the woman asked: "Does it matter if you're just a little bit pregnant?" That eliminated her.

Besides "Beat the Clock," Wayne, who has worked for the Goodson and Todman empire for four and a half years without getting a single ulcer, both writes and acts in those little skits which are designed to puzzle the panelists on "It's News To Me." Wayne reads all the papers for possible stories, then writes four or five 30 to 60 second skits, which are meant both to get some laughs and provide the panel information.

In the course of this work, he has played bookies, fighters, dozens of Russians (he's a master at dialect), little boys—"At my size (six foot two and 220 pounds) that's not easy"—a woman, Tarzan and a pigeon. That last was a story about the city of Philadelphia buying an electronic device to keep the pigeons from City Hall. Wayne played the part of a pigeon being indignant about the whole thing. The costume company had pigeon costumes, all right, but Wayne is so big it took three pigeon costumes to make one pigeon out of him.

Wayne has been in show business for 29 years, playing vaudeville, night clubs, stock, and just about everything but tent shows. I was curious to know whether his present odd jobs satisfied him.

"Well," said Wayne, "I live comfortably. My family has the things they need. It's not fancifully high, but I make a damned good income. I built my home. My son can go to a good school. I enjoy my work. I lack nothing. I've a chance to perform every week, to keep my hand in. I'm basically a fun-loving guy and get a lot of fun out of writing stunts. I'm interested in what's going on in the world and I can keep up with that. And I'm not even breeding an ulcer."

Driver Benefits Approved Here By Union, Firms

A number of contract agreements have been reached between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL) and area bakeries and transportation firms, according to C. E. Stutzman, union business agent.

On October 1 three local bakeries, Ort Brothers, Schmidt and Community Bakery will put into effect a health and welfare program for its driver-salesmen and truck washers. Stutzman said the truck washers will also receive a $2.50 weekly pay raise.

The health and welfare programs were agreed upon voluntarily by the bakeries, Stutzman pointed out. There are about 100 men involved in the contract changes. The pact runs until March 1, 1956.

Stutzman also announced that over-the-road drivers for six trucking firms received a 10 cents per hour pay raise effective last Wednesday. About 100 drivers are effected.

Stutzman said the firms which granted the pay hike in accordance with terms of a three-year contract signed some time ago are Novick, Charlton Brothers, Chaney Transportation, Maryland Motor Lines, Morris Motor Company and Cumberland Motor Lines.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Daily Bridge Lesson by Barclay

BEWARE OF SUCH ADVICE

BEWARE of the advisor who tells you that "a seven or higher card from your partner is an encouraging card, urging you to lead that suit, and a six or lower is a discouraging card indicating lack of a desire for its lead." Suppose your lowest card is a seven or eight, or the highest card you can afford is a five or six? Actually the sound advice on this subject is that an encouraging card is one you read as probably higher than his lowest, and a discouraging card is one which seems likely to be his lowest. So it is all a comparative matter, without regard to any fixed norm.

Both East and West passed that, as they thought there was a chance to beat the spade game, whereas a contract of 5-Clubs by themselves might be precarious—in both of which they were right. But they didn't cash in on their opportunity to beat the spade effort.

West began with the orthodox lead of the club K and then gave the contract to the declarer by repeating the suit with the Q. South ruffed that, drew trumps and ran four heart tricks, discarding a diamond from his own hand. Later he gave the defense two diamond tricks, but that made only three for the opposition, so his game was luckily in the bag.

East let West hear plenty for making a second club lead.

"I did that because you gave me a high card on my opening lead," said the culprit. "When you played the 7, I couldn't very well shift suits."

"If you had looked around," responded East, "you would have seen all cards lower than my seven. Two were in dummy, South played one and you had the others. So mine was bound to be the lowest card I held."

South joined in the lesson, saying that sometimes even a 3 can be encouraging if the holder can be read as also probably holding the 2 of its suit.

No Fatalities Reported As Holiday Begins

Flow Of Traffic Termed Normal

Maryland State Police early last night reported no fatal traffic accidents in the entire state, and said the flow of traffic here was moving at a "normal Sunday pace," despite the long holiday weekend.

The Romney barracks of the West Virginia State Police reported that Labor Day holiday traffic was "slow" yesterday but that they were anticipating heavier Route 50 traffic by night, as visitors try to avoid the rush sure to come today.

Only one minor accident, and that on a secondary road, was reported in the Romney area during the holiday period.

The Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford reported the same story there, with one minor accident in Bedford County. In fact, traffic was light on the usually heavily-traveled Pennsylvania Turnpike. No accidents had occurred on the pike.

Sacred Heart Hospital reported that Jerry McGuire, 24, of 52 Wempe Drive, was admitted following an accident early yesterday on Bedford Road.

McGuire told attaches he was thrown partly through the windshield of a car in which he and another man were riding when the vehicle left the road and hit a utility pole shortly after 1 a. m.

Hospital attaches said McGuire was in "fairly good" condition last night with lacerations on the forehead and nose.

Ideal Weather Forecast

Temperatures reaching an official high of 96 afforded picnickers and campers with an ideal afternoon yesterday. Officials at the Constitution Park swimming pool reported that a 'very large' crowd took advantage of the park's facilities yesterday.

The park pool and Minke's pool on the Christie Road will close today for the season. The Celanese pool closed last week, when a wave of chilly weather caused attendance to take a sharp drop.

The weather over the long holiday weekend has been ideal and the weatherman promises another good day today. The forecast reads mostly fair and continued hot. The reading was much the same for West Virginia, with the posibility of scattered afternoon thundershowers in the north portion of the state.

School Reopening Set

Things are expected to return to normal tomorrow, with the closing of the summer vacation for both public and parochial schools. City and county offices will reopen and downtown stores will be open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m., the regular Monday schedule of store hours.

Policemen will be stationed at busy street intersections near schools to safeguard children going to and reutrning from school. Flynn said statistics show that most traffic accidents involving young children are the result of adult carelessness.

Chief Flynn, in issuing a warning to parents of school-age children, said "If you have school-age children, reinforce safety teachings with teaching of your own. Know that your child understands the dangers of traffic before he starts out that first day of school."

1,800 First-Graders Begin 'Big Adventure' Tomorrow

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Tomorrow will be a big day in the life of six-year-old Kerry Kelly of 224 Carroll Street.

The first day of school in the first grade has always been an exciting time to the thousands of children who annually begin to learn the "Three Rs."

Kerry, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kelly, seems to be ready to face this new adventure. He's been showing off his blue plaid book satchel and his "measure," a 12-inch ruler.

His mother and father were away on a trip last week and Kerry's grandmother, Mrs. Dora Swach, assured him he would have sufficient pencils and writing paper.

He doesn't seem to be worried about finding his way to SS. Peter and Paul School and said that his big brother, Mike, will see that he gets there on time.

Mike is a veteran of two years schooling and will enter the third grade tomorrow. Although Kerry hasn't yet mastered the spelling of certain words which will become known to first graders during the year, he figures he can count up to 100.

He likes to glance through books a lot, and now and then takes time off to watch his favorite cowboy star on television, who is none other than Hopalong Cassidy.

Asked if he could write, Kerry picked up a pencil and within a short while had printed the first five letters of his name just as slick as a whistle and proudly remarked that his brother Mike had shown him how it was done.

And when he and several of the boys in the neighborhood get together their teacher will have her hands full for a while until she gets them pretty well under control in the confines of the classroom. Anyway, that's what his grandmother said.

This year some 75 youngsters are expected to be enrolled in the first grade at SS. Peter and Paul and the first graders will be divided into two sections.

Sister Julia and Sister Jeanine will be in charge of teaching the newcomers. According to Sister Julia the first few weeks will not be too strenuous.

The pupils, on opening day, will have a "get acquainted" session. They will learn each other's names and will get adjusted to their surroundings in the classroom.

Later they will get a good idea of the use of crayons and correct coloring. Latin, algebra, geometry and world history will have to wait their turn.

Kerry hasn't fully decided just what he wants to be when he grows up. For the moment he wants to see what school life, especially the first few days, will be like.

Tomorrow he will be joined by thousands of children who will wave goodbye to their mothers and say hello to their new teachers. In Allegany County schools some 1,600 children have been pre-registered; about 80 at St. Mary's School; 75 at SS. Peter and Paul, and 70 at St. Patrick's here in Cumberland.

Local Stores Open Tomorrow Night

Cumberland stores, closed today for the Labor Day holiday, will be open tomorrow night until 9 p. m. to take care of the last-minute "back-to-school" shopping rush.

Public buildings will be closed today. The Post Office, however, will be open for mailing of letters, although there will be no window service or carrier deliveries.

Md. Farm Queen Is Crowned

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 5 (UP)—Miss Mary Charlotte Gough, 17-year-old beauty from St. Marys County, was crowned State Farm Queen today as 4-H Club members wound up their special five-day program at the State Fair here.

The crowning of Miss Gough, who was picked for the honor previously, preceded the 4-H Club parade this afternoon and signalled the end of the youngsters' phase of the program in the 11-day fair schedule.

A total of 31,865 persons turned out in the warm sunny weather today to see the fair, even though this was the one day without racing. Only 8,263 braved a rainy day last year to see the sights. Total attendance so far was 105,797. Last year 67,605 had come to the fair by the same date.

Outdoor church services at 10 a.m. started a day of relative quiet at the fair.

Unverified Petition Signers Are Listed

Several lists of names found on petitions calling for an overhead bridge referendum are printed in an advertisement appearing in today's Cumberland News.

The signatures, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves, cannot be authenticated because:

The addresses given do not correspond with those shown on city registration records.

Signers have apparently used their husband's names, whereas in the registration records, the use of one's Christian name is required.

Husband and wife must be listed separately, as on the Cumberland registration records.

Signers have used initials, instead of their Christian names as listed on the records.

Fire Fighters Keep Vigil At Blazing Tunnel

Explosions Reported As Timbers Ignite

Fire fighters were maintaining a close watch yesterday as flames gutted the timbering of an abandoned C&P Railroad tunnel off Route 40, about seven miles west of Cumberland.

District Forester William H. Johnson said sparks were still flying from the entrance of the tunnel, creating a fire hazard to the wooded area located above the Donahue Service Station.

He said Allen Holt, district fire warden, was standing by to alert other fire fighters in case sparks from the tunnel blaze ignited the woodland.

Is Still Raging

The fire, fed by timbering of the tunnel, was discovered Saturday and has been raging through the 200-foot-long abandoned tunnel ever since.

Johnson said no water was available to fight the blaze and that fire fighters have been standing by to see that the flames do not cause greater damage.

Huge clouds of heavy smoke poured from the entrance to the shaft, and watchers reported a number of explosions which accompanied the intense heat generated by the flames.

Johnson said the blaze was assumed to have started when a cutting torch being used to salvage the iron from the right of way ignited a railroad tie.

Tracks Are Abandoned

Officials said they hope the fire will be burned out by today, as the destruction of the ties and supporting timbers is completed.

The Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company has also been checking on the blaze, and had made a number of trips to the area by yesterday afternoon.

A Western Maryland Railway crew was also on hand Saturday to guard against the spread of the flames.

The tunnel is on the right of way of C&P tracks which were abandoned recently and are being sold for scrap.

For many years, the railroad hauled coal from the Georges Creek section.

Social Security Law Changes Aid 10 Million More People

$19,600 To Be Added To 4,000 Checks Distributed Monthly In This County

Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles designed to detail the changes in the new Social Security bill, signed into law this month by President Eisenhower. Nine out of ten families in the area are affected, and this series is intended to inform our readers of their benefits and coverage under the law.

The sweeping new amendments to the Social Security Act, signed into law September 1, 1954, by President Eisenhower, will affect virtually every family in Allegany County, according to James E. Robertson, District Manager of the Social Security Administration.

"The protection of old-age and survivors insurance is now extended to 9 out of 10 families in the community," Robertson said, "and the benefit payments, not only to future beneficiaries but also to those now on the rolls, have been substantially increased."

"For example, under the old law, about 4000 beneficiaries in Allegany County received checks September 3, for the month of August, amounting to $163,000. In comparison, their September checks to be delivered early in October and reflecting the new amounts, will total about $182,900, an immediate increase of $19,600.

The amended Social Security Act—

1. Extends coverage, commencing January 1, 1955, to about 10 mililon more gainfully-employed people, including self-employed farm operators and most farm workers.
2. Increases benefits to all present and future retired workers and to their dependents and survivors.
3. Determines benefits on a more advantageous basis by permitting a worker to drop out as many as five years of low or no earnings in computing his average wage, and by increasing to $4,200 the amount of annual earnings that can be counted toward benefits.
4. Preserves for totally disabled workers any benefit rights they may have earned before they became disabled, and provides for their referral to State agencies, for rehabilitation services.
5. Permits employes and self-employed beneficiaries under age 72 to have earnings up to $1,200 in a year without loss of social security payments. (A beneficiary 72 or over will be able to receive all his payments regardless of the amount he may be earning.)

Robertson went on to explain that of the 10 million more persons eligible for the protection of old-age and survivors insurance, approximately 6¼ million will be brought into the system on January 1, 1955. Another 3¾ million may elect coverage under special arrangements.

Rubber Workers Accept 6½-Cent Wage Increase

Local 26, United Rubber Workers voted unanimously to accept a six and one-half cent an hour wage increase at a special meeting of the membership in Rubber Workers Hall Saturday.

The across-the-board pay hike became effective August 28, according to William G. Rice, president.

Under a wage reopening clause in the contract with Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, the union notified the local tire firm on March 30 that it wished to begin talks on wages.

The contract does not expire until March 1955, but under the reopening provision, the union and company began wage talks on May 4.

The negotiations were recessed on July 26 pending the outcome of the Rubber Workers Union talks with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in Akron.

Last week, Goodyear received a six and one-half cent across-the-board increase and Saturday Local 26 and Kelly officials started wage talks again on August 28.

The six-and one-half cent proposal was made by the company last week and a general membership meeting was called Saturday. Ratification came soon afterwards.

Today's Sermonette

The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Psalm 46:7.

Should The Mountains Fall—What?

By REV. KENNETH W. GROVE

A strange feeling comes over a person when for the first time he sees the receding shoreline when embarking upon an ocean voyage. This feeling increases to a high peak when at last the shoreline is lost and the landscape has become submerged by the vast expanse of water. In the wake of such an experience, as this, one is prompted to pose the question, "If the mountains should fall into the depth of the sea, and the earth be totally destroyed, what then?" And make no mistake about the potential man has in his hand for destruction.

Rev. Grove

The Psalmist had contemplated just such an eventuality. Possibly while watching his sheep on a lonely evening, he watched the blue of the hills of his precious Palestine merge into the blackness of night, and he asked himself the question, "If the mountains should fall, what then?" Happily he found the answer. "The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge." And I have no doubt that the answer returned again and again came after a lifetime of suffering through sin and sorrow, hunger and despair, loneliness and friendship. For the Psalmist tasted of life having run the whole gamut of human experience.

Here we are on another day, confronted with toppling mountains of human relationships that involve the economics, the politics, the spiritual lives of every man, woman and child throughout the world. And as we watch the peaks submerging beneath the seas of these changing relationships, we wonder what next after these mountians are gone? For it is an established fact that in the economy of the world, the old laissesfaire is inadequate to meet the challenge of our complex age. Those who cling fast to the shaking peak of that mountain must face the inevitable fact that they either adjust or get crushed in the wake of the onrush of the tide.

Whether we want to admit it or not, the isms of today have been fed in the antiquated theories of the decide so just past. God has with sure tread, measured and slow, brought to pass a change in our idea about econimics that has given to labor a more equitable share in production. The reader will note I said equitable not equal. While the prophets of doom vented their wrath against the steady stream of progress, the 40-hour week became a reality. On and on we could review and discover that mountains of economic theories have fallen to be replaced by the plains of normalcy. Without the faith of the Psalmist we would be unprepared for all the blessings and advantages such have brought us. But with "The Lord of hosts with us and the God of Jacob our refuge" we become secure through it all.

We always have to face the fact that as we move through life former relationships with those who were friends are now seemingly lost to us. Oftimes we discover our neighbors angered because of something we have done or something they imagine we have done to them. It is unpleasant to face life each day knowing this to be true. And often in spite of our best attempts to patch the rift we find ourselves lonely with people just next door. What happens when the mountains of friendship fall and leave us stranded, friendless. Frequently our sinning is of such a moral nature that society shuns us; and our anti-social feelings are fed by fuels of further resentment the more we are shunned. What happens when the mountain of social approval topples and is submerged in the sea of our sin? The Psalmist gives the only sure and satisfying answer, "The Lord of hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge."

We are dying men, and we know it. Because we know it we often enter into frenzied, last-ditch efforts to squeeze out the last bit of what we fancy to be real value from it. We engage in all sorts of activity in an attempt to forestall the inevitable day. What happens when the mountain of health topples and falls and the peak of life is slowly sinking into the sea? Frenzy or peace? Despair of life? The Psalmist gives the answer, "The Lord of hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge;" and this echoes the familiar words of Jesus, "In my Father's house are many mansions."

Red Cross Lists 1,456 Families In Food Survey

Volunteers Finish October Registration

Volunteer workers of the Allegany County Red Cross and its various branches registered a total of 1,456 families for surplus foods Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week.

In addition, the Salvation Army has registered 200 and the Associated Charities has registered 327. This makes a total in the three days of 1,983.

The Allegany County Welfare Board is also certifying its clients.

Red Cross officials explain that because it uses unpaid volunteer help, it is necessary to complete the registration in as short a time as possible, so that time is available before the tenth of each month to complete the list of eligibles for final certification. The County Commissioners requires the list by the tenth day of each month so supplies can be ordered for distribution.

The Salvation Army and Associated Charities continue to register until the tenth day, and persons who did not register last week may do so with these agencies if they are eligible.

This current registration is for the surplus food commodities which will be distributed by County Roads Department employes in October.

The Red Cross registration just completed for October shows the following branch totals: Cumberland office, 130; Frostburg 341; Lonaconing 299; Luke-Westernport, 149; Barton, 153; Midland, Gilmore, National and Klondyke, 142; Mt. Savage, 145; Eckhart 97.

The September distribution, for which registration and certification was made in August, will start next Monday at Westernport.

Area Firemen To Be Students At 4-Day School

Allegany and Garrett counties will be well represented at the Twenty-First Annual Short Course for Firemen, which opens at College Park tomorrow.

Many volunteer companies in the bi-county Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association will send representatives to the four-day school. The Cumberland Fire Department, and fire departments at the Celanese, Kelly Springfield and Allegany Ballistics Laboratory plants have indicated they will be represented.

Robert C. Byrus, director of the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland, will be in charge of the school, which will include discussion periods and demonstrations on various fire-fighting methods and different types of equipment.

Students will see rescue operations and demonstrations on fire protection essentials, general firemanship, pumping operations, and relays.

As part of their training, the students will put out fires in buildings which will have been ignited for the purpose.

Highlight of the session will be a banquet Thursday at 6:30 p. m., at which the principal speaker will be Dr. John D. Gerletti, general manager of the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Western Maryland fire officials who plan to attend the banquet include Cromwell Zembower, past president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association; William A. Wilson, state treasurer, and David E. Kirk, president of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The training program for 1955 will be outlined on Friday, final day of the school. Last year, 10 training programs were held in Allegany and Garrett counties, and more are expected to be held next year.

Prizes will be awarded to outstanding students, and all who attend will receive certificates. The school is held annually by the University of Maryland with the cooperation of the fire service extension committee of the State Firemen's Association.

No Fatalities Reported As Holiday Begins

Flow Of Traffic Termed Normal

Maryland State Police early last night reported no fatal traffic accidents in the entire state, and said the flow of traffic here was moving at a "normal Sunday pace," despite the long holiday weekend.

The Romney barracks of the West Virginia State Police reported that Labor Day holiday traffic was "slow" yesterday but that they were anticipating heavier Route 50 traffic by night, as visitors try to avoid the rush sure to come today.

Only one minor accident, and that on a secondary road, was reported in the Romney area during the holiday period.

The Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford reported the same story there, with one minor accident in Bedford County. In fact, traffic was light on the usually heavily-traveled Pennsylvania Turnpike. No accidents had occurred on the pike.

Sacred Heart Hospital reported that Jerry McGuire, 24, of 52 Wempe Drive, was admitted following an accident early yesterday on Bedford Road.

McGuire told attaches he was thrown partly through the windshield of a car in which he and another man were riding when the vehicle left the road and hit a utility pole shortly after 1 a. m.

Ideal Weather Forecast

Temperatures reaching an official high of 96 afforded picnickers and campers with an ideal afternoon yesterday. Officials at the Constitution Park swimming pool reported that a 'very large' crowd took advantage of the park's facilities yesterday.

The park pool and Minke's pool on the Christie Road will close today for the season. The Celanese pool closed last week, when a wave of chilly weather caused attendance to take a sharp drop.

The weather over the long holiday weekend has been ideal and the weatherman promises another good day today. The forecast reads mostly fair and continued hot. The reading was much the same for West Virginia, with the posibility of scattered afternoon thundershowers in the north portion of the state.

School Reopening Set

Things are expected to return to normal tomorrow, with the closing of the summer vacation for both public and parochial schools. City and county offices will reopen and downtown stores will be open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m., the regular Monday schedule of store hours.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, noting the opening of schools in Cumberland tomorrow, reminds motorists to heed all traffic regulations, particularly those concerning the school patrols which handle crowds of youngsters.

Policemen will be stationed at busy street intersections near schools to safeguard children going to and reutrning from school. Flynn said statistics show that most traffic accidents involving young children are the result of adult carelessness.

Chief Flynn, in issuing a warning to parents of school-age children, said "If you have school-age children, reinforce safety teachings with teaching of your own. Know that your child understands the dangers of traffic before he starts out that first day of school."

1,800 First-Graders Begin 'Big Adventure' Tomorrow

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Tomorrow will be a big day in the life of six-year-old Kerry Kelly of 224 Carroll Street.

The first day of school in the first grade has always been an exciting time to the thousands of children who annually begin to learn the "Three Rs."

Kerry, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kelly, seems to be ready to face this new adventure. He's been showing off his blue plaid book satchel and his "measure," a 12-inch ruler.

His mother and father were away on a trip last week and Kerry's grandmother, Mrs. Dora Swach, assured him he would have sufficient pencils and writing paper.

He doesn't seem to be worried about finding his way to SS. Peter and Paul School and said that his big brother, Mike, will see that he gets there on time.

Mike is a veteran of two years schooling and will enter the third grade tomorrow. Although Kerry hasn't yet mastered the spelling of certain words which will become known to first graders during the year, he figures he can count up to 100.

He likes to glance through books a lot, and now and then takes time off to watch his favorite cowboy star on television, who is none other than Hopalong Cassidy.

Asked if he could write, Kerry picked up a pencil and within a short while had printed the first five letters of his name just as slick as a whistle and proudly remarked that his brother Mike had shown him how it was done.

And when he and several of the boys in the neighborhood get together their teacher will have her hands full for a while until she gets them pretty well under control in the confines of the classroom. Anyway, that's what his grandmother said.

This year some 75 youngsters are expected to be enrolled in the first grade at SS. Peter and Paul and the first graders will be divided into two sections.

Sister Julia and Sister Jeanine will be in charge of teaching the newcomers. According to Sister Julia the first few weeks will not be too strenuous.

The pupils, on opening day, will have a "get acquainted" session. They will learn each other's names and will get adjusted to their surroundings in the classroom.

Later they will get a good idea of the use of crayons and correct coloring. Latin, algebra, geometry and world history will have to wait their turn.

Kerry hasn't fully decided just what he wants to be when he grows up. For the moment he wants to see what school life, especially the first few days, will be like.

Tomorrow he will be joined by thousands of children who will wave goodbye to their mothers and say hello to their new teachers. In Allegany County schools some 1,600 children have been pre-registered; about 80 at St. Mary's School; 75 at SS. Peter and Paul, and 70 at St. Patrick's here in Cumberland.

Local Stores Open Tomorrow Night

Cumberland stores, closed today for the Labor Day holiday, will be open tomorrow night until 9 p. m. to take care of the last-minute "back-to-school" shopping rush.

Public buildings will be closed today. The Post Office, however, will be open for mailing of letters, although there will be no window service or carrier deliveries.

Md. Farm Queen Is Crowned

TIMONIUM, Md., Sept. 5 (AP)—Miss Mary Charlotte Gough, 17-year-old beauty from St. Marys County, was crowned State Farm Queen today as 4-H Club members wound up their special five-day program at the State Fair here.

The crowning of Miss Gough, who was picked for the honor previously, preceded the 4-H Club parade this afternoon and signalled the end of the youngsters' phase of the program in the 11-day fair schedule.

A total of 31,865 persons turned out in the warm sunny weather today to see the fair, even though this was the one day without racing. Only 8,263 braved a rainy day last year to see the sights. Total attendance so far was 105,797. Last year 67,605 had come to the fair by the same date.

Outdoor church services at 10 a.m. started a day of relative quiet at the fair.

Unverified Petition Signers Are Listed

Several lists of names found on petitions calling for an overhead bridge referendum are printed in an advertisement appearing in today's Cumberland News.

The signatures, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves, cannot be authenticated because:

The addresses given do not correspond with those shown on city registration records.

Signers have apparently used their husband's names, whereas in the registration records, the use of one's Christian name is required.

Husband and wife must be listed separately, as on the Cumberland registration records.

Signers have used initials, instead of their Christian names as listed on the records.

Fire Fighters Keep Vigil At Blazing Tunnel

Explosions Reported As Timbers Ignite

Fire fighters were maintaining a close watch yesterday as flames gutted the timbering of an abandoned C&P Railroad tunnel off Route 40, about seven miles west of Cumberland.

District Forester William H. Johnson said sparks were still flying from the entrance of the tunnel, creating a fire hazard to the wooded area located above the Donahue Service Station.

He said Allen Holt, district fire warden, was standing by to alert other fire fighters in case sparks from the tunnel blaze ignited the woodland.

Is Still Raging

The fire, fed by timbering of the tunnel, was discovered Saturday and has been raging through the 200-foot-long abandoned tunnel ever since.

Johnson said no water was available to fight the blaze and that fire fighters have been standing by to see that the flames do not cause greater damage.

Huge clouds of heavy smoke poured from the entrance to the shaft, and watchers reported a number of explosions which accompanied the intense heat generated by the flames.

Johnson said the blaze was assumed to have started when a cutting torch being used to salvage the iron from the right of way ignited a railroad tie.

Tracks Are Abandoned

Officials said they hope the fire will be burned out by today, as the destruction of the ties and supporting timbers is completed.

The Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company has also been checking on the blaze, and had made a number of trips to the area by yesterday afternoon.

A Western Maryland Railway crew was also on hand Saturday to guard against the spread of the flames.

The tunnel is on the right of way of C&P tracks which were abandoned recently and are being sold for scrap.

For many years, the railroad hauled coal from the Georges Creek section.

Social Security Law Changes Aid 10 Million More People

$19,600 To Be Added To 4,000 Checks Distributed Monthly In This County

Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles designed to detail the changes in the new Social Security bill, signed into law this month by President Eisenhower. Nine out of ten families in the area are affected, and this series is intended to inform our readers of their benefits and coverage under the law.

The sweeping new amendments to the Social Security Act, signed into law September 1, 1954, by President Eisenhower, will affect virtually every family in Allegany County, according to James E. Robertson, District Manager of the Social Security Administration.

"The protection of old-age and survivors insurance is now extended to 9 out of 10 families in the community," Robertson said, "and the benefit payments, not only to future beneficiaries but also to those now on the rolls, have been substantially increased."

"For example, under the old law, about 4000 beneficiaries in Allegany County received checks September 3, for the month of August, amounting to $163,000. In comparison, their September checks to be delivered early in October and reflecting the new amounts, will total about $182,900, an immediate increase of $19,600.

The amended Social Security Act—

1. Extends coverage, commencing January 1, 1955, to about 10 mililon more gainfully-employed people, including self-employed farm operators and most farm workers.

2. Increases benefits to all present and future retired workers and to their dependents and survivors.

3. Determines benefits on a more advantageous basis by permitting a worker to drop out as many as five years of low or no earnings in computing his average wage, and by increasing to $4,200 the amount of annual earnings that can be counted toward benefits.

4. Preserves for totally disabled workers any benefit rights they may have earned before they became disabled, and provides for their referral to State agencies, for rehabilitation services.

5. Permits employes and self-employed beneficiaries under age 72 to have earnings up to $1,200 in a year without loss of social security payments. (A beneficiary 72 or over will be able to receive all his payments regardless of the amount he may be earning.)

Robertson went on to explain that of the 10 million more persons eligible for the protection of old-age and survivors insurance, approximately 6¼ million will be brought into the system on January 1, 1955. Another 3¾ million may elect coverage under special arrangements.

Rubber Workers Accept 6½-Cent Wage Increase

Local 26, United Rubber Workers voted unanimously to accept a six and one-half cent an hour wage increase at a special meeting of the membership in Rubber Workers Hall Saturday.

The across-the-board pay hike became effective August 28, according to William G. Rice, president.

Under a wage reopening clause in the contract with Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, the union notified the local tire firm on March 30 that it wished to begin talks on wages.

The contract does not expire until March 1955, but under the reopening provision, the union and company began wage talks on May 4.

The negotiations were recessed on July 26 pending the outcome of the Rubber Workers Union talks with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in Akron.

Last week, Goodyear received a six and one-half cent across-the-board increase and Saturday Local 26 and Kelly officials started wage talks again on August 28.

The six-and one-half cent proposal was made by the company last week and a general membership meeting was called Saturday. Ratification came soon afterwards.

But with "The Lord of hosts with us and the God of Jacob our refuge" we become secure through it all.

We always have to face the fact that as we move through life former relationships with those who were friends are now seemingly lost to us. Oftimes we discover our neighbors angered because of something we have done or something they imagine we have done to them. It is unpleasant to face life each day knowing this to be true. And often in spite of our best attempts to patch the rift we find ourselves lonely with people just next door. What happens when the mountains of friendship fall and leave us stranded, friendless. Frequently our sinning is of such a moral nature that society shuns us; and our anti-social feelings are fed by fuels of further resentment the more we are shunned. What happens when the mountain of social approval topples and is submerged in the sea of our sin? The Psalmist gives the only sure and satisfying answer, "The Lord of hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge."

We are dying men, and we know it. Because we know it we often enter into frenzied, last-ditch efforts to squeeze out the last bit of what we fancy to be real value from it. We engage in all sorts of activity in an attempt to forestall the inevitable day. What happens when the mountain of health topples and falls and the peak of life is slowly sinking into the sea? Frenzy or peace? Despair of life? The Psalmist gives the answer, "The Lord of hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge;" and this echoes the familiar words of Jesus, "In my Father's house are many mansions."

Volunteers Finish October Registration

Volunteer workers of the Allegany County Red Cross and its various branches registered a total of 1,456 families for surplus foods Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week.

In addition, the Salvation Army has registered 200 and the Associated Charities has registered 327. This makes a total in the three days of 1,983.

The Allegany County Welfare Board is also certifying its clients.

Red Cross officials explain that because it uses unpaid volunteer help, it is necessary to complete the registration in as short a time as possible, so that time is available before the tenth of each month to complete the list of eligibles for final certification. The County Commissioners requires the list by the tenth day of each month so supplies can be ordered for distribution.

The Salvation Army and Associated Charities continue to register until the tenth day, and persons who did not register last week may do so with these agencies if they are eligible.

This current registration is for the surplus food commodities which will be distributed by County Roads Department employes in October.

The Red Cross registration just completed for October shows the following branch totals: Cumberland office, 130; Frostburg 341; Lonaconing 299; Luke-Westernport, 149; Barton, 153; Midland, Gilmore, National and Klondyke, 142; Mt. Savage, 145; Eckhart 97.

The September distribution, for which registration and certification was made in August, will start next Monday at Westernport.

Area Firemen To Be Students At 4-Day School

Allegany and Garrett counties will be well represented at the Twenty-First Annual Short Course for Firemen, which opens at College Park tomorrow.

Many volunteer companies in the bi-county Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association will send representatives to the four-day school. The Cumberland Fire Department, and fire departments at the Celanese, Kelly Springfield and Allegany Ballistics Laboratory plants have indicated they will be represented.

Robert C. Byrus, director of the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland, will be in charge of the school, which will include discussion periods and demonstrations on various fire-fighting methods and different types of equipment.

Students will see rescue operations and demonstrations on fire protection essentials, general firemanship, pumping operations, and relays.

As part of their training, the students will put out fires in buildings which will have been ignited for the purpose.

Highlight of the session will be a banquet Thursday at 6:30 p. m., at which the principal speaker will be Dr. John D. Gerletti, general manager of the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Western Maryland fire officials who plan to attend the banquet include Cromwell Zembower, past president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association; William A. Wilson, state treasurer, and David E. Kirk, president of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The training program for 1955 will be outlined on Friday, final day of the school. Last year, 10 training programs were held in Allegany and Garrett counties, and more are expected to be held next year.

Prizes will be awarded to outstanding students, and all who attend will receive certificates. The school is held annually by the University of Maryland with the cooperation of the fire service extension committee of the State Firemen's Association.
